Firemen battle blaze as dense smoke fills St. James Street building

Restaurant Is Damaged By Fire, Dense Smoke

Fire of undetermined origin caused heavy damage to the basement of Hamburger Paradise, 19 St. James Street, late Sunday afternoon, consumed most of the floor timbers under the restaurant, and charged the entire two-story frame structure with dense smoke.

Fireman Philip Ahl, of Central station, suffered a slight cut over his left eye, as firefighters, who described it as "one of the smokiest" in their memory, battled the blaze for more than an hour.

Materials Ignited

The fire, which reportedly started in the southwest corner of the basement, ignited a large amount of combustibles such as paper cups, napkins, pasteboard containers, several cartons of book matches, and approximately 200 pounds of cooking grease, Deputy Chief Harold Sanford said.

The alarm was telephoned in at 5:20 p. m. by Ferris Williams, an employe of the Ulster Foundry & Machine Corporation, 20 St. James Street, located across the street from the restaurant, who detected smoke from the fire.

Away From Rooms

The second floor of the building, the front and sides of which are constructed of brick, was occupied by Arthur Peterson, William O'Neil and George Seibert. They were not in their rooms at the time of the fire, it was reported.

The restaurant, which is closed all day Sunday, is owned and operated by Frank and Norma Provenzano, of 6 South Washington Avenue.

Firemen, under the direction of Chief James M. Brett and Deputy Chief Sanford, found the building heavily charged with smoke on their arrival and heavy pall of dense, black smoke hung over that section of the city.

Smoke Fills Building

While the fire was confined entirely to the basement, which suffered heavy damage from fire and water, there was extremely heavy smoke and heat throughout the building, Deputy Chief Sanford reported.

The fire consumed most of the floor timbers, and destroyed large portions of the basement and its contents, he said.

The restaurant floor was cut through in several places to attack the fire with distributors, the deputy chief said, and two large plate glass windows in the front of the restaurant were removed for ventilation purposes. Several smaller windows were broken, he said, to provide ventilation.

Last in Building

Provenzano said that Herbert McDonald, an employe, was in the building cleaning up during the afternoon and had left shortly before 4:15 p. m. The owner said he was the last to leave the building, between 4:15 and 4:20., when he stopped to get some cigars.

When he left the building, Provenzano said he did not detect anything out of order, and there was no odor of smoke. He said that he had not checked the basement, stopping only at the cigar counter just inside the front door.

Firemen noted that an elec-

Russian Schools Lay Emphasis on Science Studies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The curriculum in Russian schools lays heavy emphasis on science and related fields because Russian leaders "believe that these subjects contribute most directly to mastery and control of the material environment."

This was one conclusion in a study by the U. S. Office of Education of the Russian educational system. The report was issued yesterday.

In connection with that report, U. S. Education commissioner Lawrence G. Derthick said it is clear Russian education is "making an increasing contribution to the Soviet objectives, particularly in science and technology."

The report said that enrollment in Russian institutions of higher education rose from 169,000 in 1927 to 1,867,000 last year. In the

Many Are Dental Cripples Despite Big Expenditure

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

CLEVELAND (AP)—A large proportion of the nation's people are "dental cripples" despite enormous expenditures for dental care, a New York State dental official said today.

"This is the extent of the dental caries (decay) problem," Dr. David B. Ast, director of the Bureau of Dental Health, N. Y. State Department of Health, told the opening session of the American Public Health Assn.'s 85th annual meeting.

He said the latest avilable statistics on financial outlays for dental care show that the American public spent $1,600,000,000 in 1955 for that purpose.

Dr. Ast offered no figures on the number of "dental cripples" other than saying that "our people in large measure" are such cripples.

But he declared that tooth decay "affects practically the entire population, starting early in life, and the annual increments of defects occur at a faster rate than the corrections which can be made by dentists."

He said tooth decay could be reduced materially by cutting down on sweets and by brushing the teeth "immediately" after eating or drinking any food at any time, but he declared both those procedures are impractical.

"Regular and periodic care by the family dentist will not necessarily prevent the incidence of dental caries," he said, "but it could very well prevent the gross destruction of tooth structure and

EGYPT'S TARGET—Jordan's King Hussein, above, has been the target of propaganda by Egypt. Egyptians appear to be making an outright appeal to Jordanian Arabs to consider assassinating the 22-year-old monarch. (AP Wirehoto).

Cairo Booms New Attack Today on Hussein Regime

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Cairo newspapers boomed out new attacks today against young King Hussein and his Jordan regime, charging he was making undercover deals with Israel and predicting the people would trample traitors and oppressors underfoot.

In Damascus, the Syrian capital, about 10,000 Palestinian refugees paraded through the streets shouting "Down with King Hussein." Echoing the strong Egyptian propaganda campaign, the demonstrators denounced alleged negotiations by Jordan to "conclude peace with Israel and liquidate the Palestine cause."

The demonstrators chanted "Our lands are not for sale for dollars," and "No pacts, no imperialism."

Syrian authorities threw a heavy guard around the Jordan legation in Damascus.

King Hussein struck back at the Egyptian propaganda attacks over the weekend. He said yesterday Egyptian leaders had "sold themselves to Communism and exploit Arab nationalism to divert Egyptian public opinion away

Thruway Thriving, Should Meet Costs by Year 1960

ALBANY (AP)— The State Thruway is thriving and, by 1960, will more than meet its annual bond payments and operating costs, the Harriman administration reports.

This report came from Paul H. Appleby, who prepared a fiscal review just before he retired Oct. 31 as budget director. Gov. Harriman released the report yesterday.

The first substantial portion of the Thruway was opened to taffic in the summer of 1954 by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Appleby said the Thruway "should not be regarded as a matter of any nervous concern in financial circles or among taxpayers."

He said the state was providing the Thruway with "the kind of direction it requires. . ."

At the same time, Appleby said his estimates of the Thruway's financial structure were "a little bit more conservative" than the authority's.

Appleby said he had had independent studies made of operating expenditures, debt service and prospective revenues. He said there were differences of from $2,700,000 to $5,100,000 a yar between his forecast and that of the Thruway Authority.

Even so, the authority will earn $4,135,000 over costs even in the year for which the variation is the widest, Appleby said.

The authority owes the state 75 million dollars that was appropriated to finance early work. It had been due for payment next April 1, but Appleby said a new contract had postponed the date to April 1, 1959.

The postponement, the former budget director said, will cut the Thruway's amortization and interest charges next year by about $2,200,000.

"Any use of construction funds for debt service in 1959 will be very small, accroding to my forecasts, and all charges should be readily met from earnings in 1960 and thereafter," he said.

Appleby recommended increasing the $20 charge for annual permits that allow toll-free use of the 526-mile cross-state expressway.

For some time, the authority has been considering raising the fee.

Scientists Optimistic On Missile

Says U. S. Chance Good to Catch Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three rocket experts said today they believe the United States has a good chance to perfect an intercontinental ballistic missile as soon as the Russians.

The consensus of the scientists was that Russia may have a slim edge now in the ICBM race but could well lose any advantage in the next couple of years. They all expressed doubts Russia now has an operational ICBM.

Here is what they said in copyrighted interviews in the current issue of the magazine U. S. News & World Report.

Sets 1960 Date

Dr. Theodore von Karman, senior missile adviser to NATO in Paris: ". . .I am convinced we can have operational ICBM's in 1960. I don't believe the Russians will have them before that."

Dr. Walter R. Dornberger, Bell Aircraft Corp. official who directed development of Germany's wartime V-2 rocket: "I think our ICBM program is very well on its way, and there are certain limits. You can't put in more and more money and more and more effort; there is a point of no return. I think we can accelerate it a little bit—there is no doubt about it. They aren't so far ahead that we won't catch up with them."

'Quite Good,' Report

Dr. S. Fred Singer, University of Maryland astrophysicist: "I have the feeling that, since our program really got going in 1954, it has been well managed; that, while there may be something lacking in cooperation, it has already been quite good, and all indications are that we are at least up to par with them."

Singer said that in the field of long range missiles, the Russians may have a lead in the propulsion field of "a few weeks or months." But he added that "we may well be ahead of them" in the equally important fields of guidance and re-entry to the earth's atmosphere.

He said in response to a question, that the United States is on the verge of having an ICBM whereas there is no assurance the Russians are that close.

Flu, Like Illness Claims 186 in State

ALBANY (AP)—The death toll in New York State from flu and related illnesses today stood at 186.

The latest death reported was that of Emory H. Stickle, 65, of Garrattsville. He died Saturday in Oneonta of pneumonia that his family physician said followed flu.

The death was the 54th reported in the counties outside of New York City. The New York City toll was 132.

The health department in New York City reported Saturday there had been a half-million cases of Asian flu in the city since September.

Central Business Meeting

A meeting of the Central Businessmen's Association will be held Wednesday at noon in Cuneo's Restaurant on Broadway to discuss the Christmas program. All members are urged to attend.

Chinese Tot Joins Parents In America

BOSTON (AP)—A new life in a new freedom-loving country began today for a 9-year-old Chinese girl who was smuggled out of Red China to be reuinted with her parents here after a separation of 8½ years.

Charming little Aurora Way flew in yesterday and was smothered in the arms of her mother, Mrs. John Way.

The tot's father, beaming with joy and pride, presented his daughter with a toy poodle and a stack of comic books.

Aurora was left with her grandmother in Shanghai in 1949 because she was too ill at the time to accompany her parents when they came to Boston for a visit.

Shortly after the Ways departed, the city was captured by Communists who declined to allow the child to join her parents.

Last winter Aurora was smuggled out of the country in the hold of a Chinese junk. She was taken to Hong Kong where immigration laws barred entrance to this country.

Later U. S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall was able to persuade authorities to allow her to come to America.

Yesterday she flew from San Francisco to Boston's Logan International Airport for the joyous reunion.

Both mother and daughter gave vent to their pent up emotions in a feminue burst of happy weeping and laughing as they clung to each other.

Also present for the reunion was her brother, Douglas, 11, who gave her a welcome hug.

Typhoon Seen Boost For Garcia Chance

MANILA (AP)—Typhoon Kit lashed populous Luzon island today. Political observers saw it as a possible boost for President Carlos P. Garcia's already strong chances in tomorrow's presidential election.

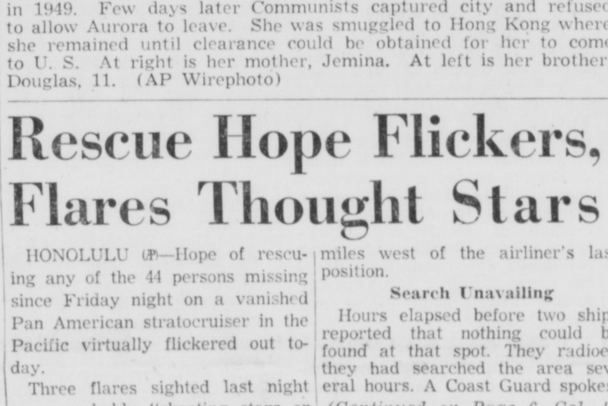

The big storm, carrying winds of up to 120 miles an hour was expected to cut completely across Luzon, north of Manila, through sections considered strong for major opposition candidates Jose Yulo of the Liberal Party and Manuel P. Manahan of the Progressive Party.

Since typhoons usually bring heavy wind and flood damage, it was considered likely many voters in the rural areas would not be able to reach the polls. Garcia's administration and his Nacionalista party's machine also are in a better position than others to provide transportation to the voting booths.

Ulster Town Plan Ready for Tuesday

The Town of Ulster development plan will be submitted to the town officials and officials of the State Commerce Department Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Lake Katrine School.

After its acceptance by the local officials it will be placed on public display and Tuesday evening an "information" meeting will be held at the school when the public will have an opportunity to have it explained and be given an opportunity to make suggestions. The plan, the first to be submitted in the state under state and federal assistance, was prepared by the Frederick T. Clark Associates of Rye, N. Y., who were engaged to prepare the $19,000 plan.

REUNION WITH FAMILY—Aurora Way, 8, is held by her father, John Way, after reunion with family in Boston, Mass., Nov. 10. Child was left in Shanghai when family came to U. S. for visit in 1949. Few days later Communists captured city and refused to allow Aurora to leave. She was smuggled to Hong Kong where she remained until clearance could be obtained for her to come to U. S. ## Rescue Hope Flickers, Flares Thought Stars

HONOLULU (AP)—Hope of rescuing any of the 44 persons missing since Friday night on a vanished Pan American stratocruiser in the Pacific virtually flickered out today.

Three flares sighted last night were probably "shooting stars or from other search aircraft," A Coast Guard spokesman said. "They were flight flares and that's always kind of doubtful" as a distress signal.

Investigation of the flares continued after daybreak as part of a gigantic search operation covering 172,440 square miles of the ocean.

No Trace at All

But no trace of the missing plane, "Romance of The Skies," had been found at daylight today, more than 2½ days after last word from the huge flying clipper.

Additional search aircraft flew out from Oahu Island at daylight to join the Pacific's greatest air-sea rescue mission. Planes, helicopters, submarines, the aircraft carrier Philippine Sea and a small fleet of Coast Guard vessels searched the ocean's swells for traces of the plane after a series of possible clues faded out.

The destroyer escort Epperson had been ordered to investigate the flares sighted last night.

Long range radar - equipped Navy Constellations reported seeing two flares at different points —one 540 miles west of the plane's position when it radioed routinely Friday night before disappearing. The second was slightly west of the first.

Flare Is White

An Air Force plane sighted a third flare some 340 miles west of the Pan American airliners' last reported position. It was described as white.

Surface craft criss-crossed the checkerboard search area, now broken into two rectangular areas under the new pattern. One is 460 miles long and 115 miles wide and the other is 695 miles long and 172 miles wide.

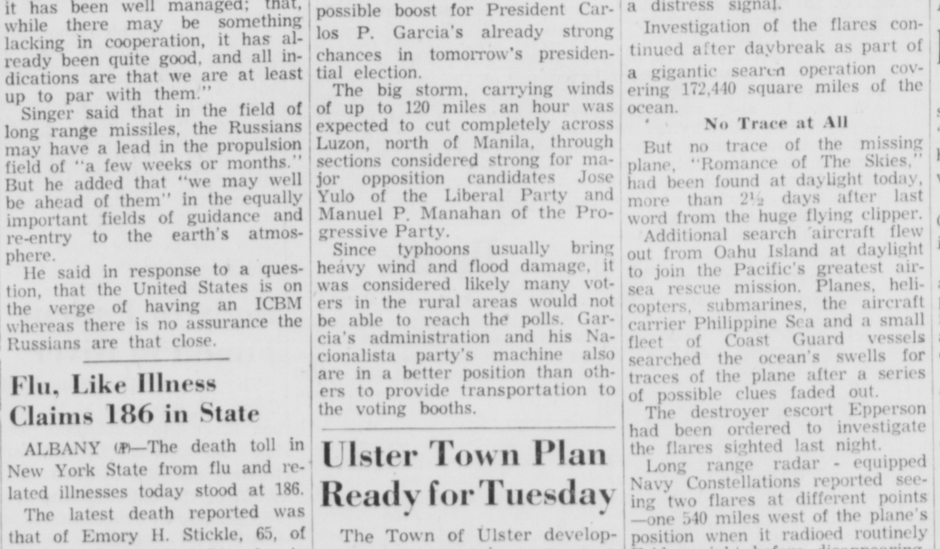

Both straddle the path the lost plane was navigating.

Earlier, hope had flickered and faded with a report of the sighting of a yellow dye marker, "A flare and something red" at a spot 425 miles west of the airliner's last position.

Search Unavailing

Hours elapsed before two ships reported that nothing could be found at that spot. They radioed they had searched the area several hours. A Coast Guard spokes-

Moscow Is Quoted by Newspaper

Sputnik II Makes Its 110th Circuit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Death reportedly has claimed the Russian dog Laika, first earth creature to penetrate outer space.

The report of Laika's death was published today by the Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita, quoting its Moscow correspondent. It said Laika was "put to sleep by a strong narcotic contained in the last bite of food to avoid its suffering prolonged agony."

Not Exact Words

The headline said "Laika is dead," although the story did not use those words. It said "Laika will never return to earth." An early edition of the Rome newspaper quoted what it said was an official Moscow announcement of the dog's death. But the final edition did not mention an official announcement.

There was no direct word from Moscow on Laika's fate, but the Soviet news agency Tass said last night that "the program of scientific research as planned through the second Sputnik has been fulfilled completely."

110th Circuit

Later, Moscow Radio reported that Sputnik II had completed its 110th circuit of the earth, but made no mention of Laika.

Russia's second space satellite was launched eight days ago, carrying the fluffy little Russian dog in a harness inside. For the first four days, the Russians reported getting radioed information on Laika's bodily reactions as the half-ton Sputnik sped around the earth at altitudes running up to more than 1,000 miles.

The Tass report said Sputnik II's two radio transmitters now are dead and that direct reports no longer are being received. It said nothing about Laika.

Odd Finding

In London, Prof. A. C. Lovell, a leading British astronomer, said it was "very, very odd" that the radio transmissions from Sputnik II ended so quickly. He said he can't believe "they sent this rocket up for getting information from it for only seven days."

Sputnik II was launched Nov. 3. The newspaper Evening Moscow said Sputnik I and its carrier rocket had finished more than 550 circuits since their launching Oct. 4. The radio on Sputnik I has been dead for some time.

In reporting Laika's death, L'Unita wrote this epitaph for the small dog whose lonely space travels captured the world's imagination:

"Through its sacrifice, Laika gave science precious data which will soon allow mankind to dominate space."

Wide-range Discussion

Meanwhile, the problem of overtaking the Russians in the space satellite and missiles fields came in for wide-ranging discussion in the United States.

A staff report Saturday to the Senate Government Operations Committee recommended an overhaul of U. S. scientific programs. Among other things, the report called for creation of a department of science and technology headed by a new cabinet officer.

Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, said in Cambridge, Mass., the armed forces setup should be revamped to meet Russia's challenge. He also said the

Khrushchev Now At Pinnacle but Position Not Safe

LONDON (AP)—George F. Kennan says Nikita Khrushchev has "achieved the pinnacle of power he wanted" but his position is very precarious.

Citing the demotion of Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Kennan declared in a radio address:

"Khrushchev has now offended and estranged from the central political process, one by one, the intelligentsia, the industrial managers and a portion of the officers' corps of the armed services.

"Plainly this is not a stable situation. I cannot believe that it will be of long duration."

Kennan, former U. S. ambassador to Moscow and one of the leading American authorities on Soviet affairs, was giving the first of a series of lectures on "Russia the atom and the world" for the British Broadcasting Corp.

The former diplomat is a staff member at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N. J., and this year is a visiting professor at Oxford University.

"The pattern which we are obliged to discern on the Russian internal scene is a mixed one," he said. "Economic progress—yes, but against a background of deepening crisis on the political front, crisis in the relationship of the senior figures to each other, crisis in their relationship to the people over whom they rule. . ."

Kennan said the political crisis was "not likely to come to a head tomorrow" but that it was "not readily to be resolved by anything short of complete cultural and political freedom."

Three Dairy Groups Meet Thursday on Union Plans

UTICA (AP) — Three insurgent dairy farmer organizations meet here Thursday to draw up further plans for their proposed merger but one group is balking at part of the proposition.

At a meeting here Saturday, presidents of county locals of the Farmers Union voted not to affiliate with the AFL-CIO at this time.

Under the merger plan, the combined group would affiliate with the AFL-CIO Grain Millers Union.

Besides the Farmers Union, the other groups included in the planned merger are the Dairy Farmers of America and the Tri-State Master Dairy Farmers Guild. The combined group—to be called the United Master Dairy Farmers—would claim a membership of about 12,500 of the 55,000 dairymen who supply the New York-New Jersey milk market.

Commenting on the Farmers Union vote against union affiliation, S. Cady Schoonover of Selkirk, president of the DFA, said he thought "all will be worked out."

Angelo DeLewis of Plattekill, president of the Ulster County Farmers Union local, said a majority of those attending Saturday's meeting felt that AFL-CIO affiliation "would be inviting a contradiction which would be impractical to small and large farmers."

"All farmers hire labor and the AFL-CIO represents labor," DeLewis said.

Thursday's meeting is to work out constitutional by-laws for the merged organization.

The Farmers Union named a four-man committee to represent it at this meeting. It includes: Douglas Spencer of Canajoharie, chairman; Howard Ormsbree of Schuyler Lake; Albert Gits of Morrisville and Raymond H. Knack of Hortonville, president of the Farmers-Union.

Friday Mrs. Brainerd reposed at Halloran Funeral Home where many friends called. Friday evening the Rev. Alfred P. Glancy called and led the assembled friends in the recitation of the Rosary. The casket was banked with many floral tributes and there were many spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Glancy gave the final blessing. Bearers were: Stanley Barber, Charles Tyler, James Dunigan and Joseph Koskie.

Francis Fuscardo

The funeral of Francis (Frank) Fuscardo of East Kingston was held from his late residence Saturday at 9:30 a. m.; thence to St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, where a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul. Officiating at the Mass was the Rev. Edmond V. Radford, celebrant, the Rev. Austin V. Carey, deacon and the Rev. Robert Saccomon, sub-deacon. Responses to the Mass were sung by Martin Kelly, assisted at the organ by Nan Goldrick. During the days of reposal many neighbors, relatives and friends called to pay their respect and offer condolence to the bereaved family. There were many floral tributes and numerous spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards. St. John and St. Liberata Societies of East Kingston called in a group Thursday evening. Later that evening the East Kingston Mothers' Club also called. Representatives from the Ulster County Highway Department and Colony Liquor Inc., also called. Father Radford called Friday evening and led those assembled in the recitation of the Rosary. Father Carey also called and offered prayers for the dead. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Radford pronounced the final blessing. Bearers were James Natalie, John Mauro, Louis DeCicco, Angelo Qualtiere, Frank Castiglione and Anthony Gallo, all fellow members of St. John and St. Liberata Society.

Name IBM Head 1957 Outstanding Young Engineer

ROBERT P. CRAGO

Director of Engineering for Military Products with International Business Machines Corp., Kingston, Robert P. Crago, was named this weekend as the outstanding young electrical engineer of 1957, it was announced by John H. Craig, chairman of the award organization committee of Eta Kappa Nu, national electrical engineering honor society.

A resident of Kingston, Crago was formerly general manager of the IBM plant in Kingston.

Search Nation-wide

The society said Crago had been chosen in a nation-wide talent search. Candidates must be graduates of an American college or university in the past 10 years, be under 35 and have records of achievement in electrical engineering, service on behalf of the community, state or nation, and cultural or aesthetic development. Eta Kappa Nu claims 28,000 members in 71 colleges and 12 alumni chapters.

Crago, a graduate of Carnegie Technology, joined IBM at Poughkeepsie in 1949 as a technical engineer. He was appointed project engineer in 1951, and in 1953 to manager of engineering design.

In the latter post he was responsible for all research and development activities related to "Project High," an air defense computer for the U. S. Air Force.

Crago was named assistant general manager of the IBM Military Products Division plant at Kingston in October, 1955, and in April, 1956, became general manager.

Named Director

On Sept. 9, Crago was named director of engineering for the IBM Military Products Division, which has plants at Kingston and Owego.

In the community, Crago has been active as a member of the board of trustees of Kingston Hospital, a member of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, an elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Poughkeepsie and has been active in vocational guidance and church work among youth.

Crago will receive the Eta Kappa Nu honor at a dinner in New York in February.

Deaths

By The Associated Press

ROME, Ga. (AP) — Henderson Lanham, 69, Democratic representative in Congress from Georgia's 7th District since 1946, killed yesterday in a train-auto collision.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. William G. Mather, 66, philanthropist and civic leader, died yesterday. Her first husband was industrialist James D. Ireland, who died in 1928, and in 1929 she married Mather, president and later board chairman of Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. She was born in Saginaw, Mich.

MANHASSET (AP) — Frank X. McNamara, 40, who founded the Diners Club in New York in 1950 and built it into a six million dollar-a-year business with branches across the country, died Saturday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. John Bartlet Brebner, 62, professor of history at Columbia University, died yesterday. Brebner, who was born in Toronto, joined the Columbia faculty in 1942.

Metal Box, Papers and $60 Found Following Burglary

A metal box with $40 missing, which was stolen Saturday night from the ransacked apartment of Mrs. Louisa Barton, of the Franklin Apartments, 753 Broadway, was found today, police reported, while continuing their investigation of the theft.

Police said the box contained a total of $100, two bank books, and insurance papers.

Police received a call at 9:12 p. m., that Mrs. Barton's apartment, on the second floor of the building, had been entered. Sgt. Francis Fagan, Detective Frank Sammons and Officers Leonard Ellsworth and Frank Sonner began their investigation.

The officers found that the apartment had been ransacked, and the bathtub, filled with water, had overflowed into the second floor hall.

Clothes and other articles had been thrown into the bathtub, and a trunk in the living room closet opened, and its contents thrown around the room. A silver box in the kitchen had been pried open and silverware had been dumped on a kitchen cabinet, police said.

Found by Davis

The box, containing the $100, described as of grey metal and fireproof, was found today about 8:30 a. m. in the rear of the J. H. Byrne Chevrolet Corp., 731 Broadway, by Burton Davis, an employe of the automobile agency.

When police opened the box, they discovered that $40 of the $100 was missing.

Mrs. Barton told police she had left the apartment about 7:30 p. m. to visit a neighbor on the third floor of the building and watch television. Police reported, after investigation, that there had been no apparent attempt to force entry into the apartment, and it was believed the door had been left unlocked.

Water Alerts Tenant

The overflow of water from the bathtub attracted the attention of downstairs' neighbors, and when Mrs. Barton returned to her apartment she discovered it had been ransacked and the metal box was missing.

Detectives Sammons and Clarence Brophy were continuing the investigation today.

Police also received a report at 1:42 p. m. Saturday, from John Buck Jr., of RD 2, Box 262, Kingston, that within the previous 48 hours, someone had removed a large quantity of used hard lumber from a garage located in the rear of 11 Hone Street, owned and occupied by John Buck Sr.

It was reported that the lumber had been pre-cut for proper fitting, and it was noted that since the garage doors had been left open it was believed a vehicle had been used to haul away the lumber. The value of the lumber had not been determined today.

Abandoned House Burns Near Catskill

A fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the old abandoned VanLoan farm house a mile south of Catskill on route 9-W. Fire broke out about 8:30 in the large frame house and companies from Catskill and Leeds responded. Flames spread so fast firemen were unable to save the structure. It is believed tramps using the house may have set fire to the place.

Although not officially in use the Greene county radio system was put to use in summoning assistance. The house was located some distance from other homes.

Mother's Death Leads Hero Son To Take His Life

Frederick Sleight, 39, of 69 Gage Street, apparently despondent over the death of his mother, Mrs. Nettie Roe Sleight who died last Wednesday, committed suicide some time Friday by attaching a metal hose to the exhaust of his car and placing the tube through a car window.

The body was found at 3 p. m. Saturday, an hour after his mother's funeral had been held, by Benjamin Ligotino.

The body was discovered in the car near the Town of Ulster water tower off the East Chester by-pass. He had been reported missing by the Kingston police. He had left the funeral home Friday morning and failed to return home. His mother had been an invalid for a long time and he had been taking care of her. It was reported that he had remarked he could not live without her.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle gave a verdict of suicide by asphyxiation from carbon monoxide.

Troopers E. P. Shannon and R. I. Ryan of the Kingston state police station conducted an investigation.

Cited for Service

Born in West Orange, N. J., Sleight was a resident of Kingsto for 37 years. In the U. S. Army, he served as a corporal with Headquarters Company, Third Battalion, 105th Infantry from 1941 to 1945. He was in the Eastern Mandates, Ryukyu Islands and Western Pacific battles and campaigns where he was was lost for 45 days during an engagement. On July 7, 1944, he received a citation for meritorious service in connection with military operations against the enemy at Saipan, Marianna Islands. He was the holder of the American Defense Service Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Service Medal, Bronze Star and Good Conduct Medal. Sleight was a member of the Church of the Nazarene.

Surviving are his father, Scott Sleight; two brothers, John and Herbert Sleight; a sister, Edna, wife of William Cole.

Funeral services will be held from Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Rev. Everett E. Herron, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene will officiate. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call this afternoon and evening from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 o'clock.

Body of Patient Found in River

The body of Ira William McGuire, 74, a patient at the Hudson River State Hospital, missing since October 27, was found floating in the Hudson River south of the old Highland ferry slip Sunday by two hunters. McGuire was reported to have jumped from a dock at Poughkeepsie two weeks ago.

John Anderson, 17, of 52 Lent Street, and Robert Simmons, 17, of 58 Lent Street, Poughkeepsie, were hunting at 12:45 p. m. Sunday when they discovered the body. The body was identified by Davis Peluso, day superintendent at the hospital.

Coroner Michael Galietta gave a verdict of suicide by drowning.

CD Police Meeting Is Scheduled at 7:30 P.M.

Auxiliary police of the Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense will hold their last regular meeting of the year today at 7:30 p. m. at the City Hall.

Chief Ben Orkoff said this would be the final meeting of the year for the group unless an emergency arises.

Fred Van Deusen will be the guest speaker.

Chief Orfkoff reminded, in inviting all regular members to attend the meeting, that the organization still is recruiting for new members to reach a strength of 150 officers by January 1, 1958.

West New York Has 15-Inch Snow

ALBANY (AP) — Temperatures plunged as low as 1 below zero in New York State today in the wake of a pre-winter storm that dumped up to 15 inches of snow in western New York.

The 1 below reading was at Arcade, Wyoming County. Other official overnight lows included zero at Saranac Lake, 2 above at Booneville, 5 at Oneonta, 13 at Olean, 15 at Watertown, 16 at Elmira, 17 at Albany, Plattsburgh, Utica and Rome, 19 at Buffalo and Binghamton and 29.8 in New York City.

Tomorrow is expected to be a little warmer, the Weather Bureau said.

Weekend motorists found slippery going in central and western New York. Roads were open, but icy. Traffic on the Thruway moved normally late yesterday after the speed limit between Amsterdam and Buffalo was cut to 35 m.p.h. for 18 hours.

Driving was hazardous throughout western New York Saturday and Sunday and icy conditions produced several traffic snarls in Buffalo suburbs. Many minor accidents were blamed on the weather.

The snow belt in the hills south of Buffalo recorded the deepest snow. The Cattaraugus County highway department at Little Valley measured 15 inches accumulated snow yesterday. Jamestown had six inches, Olean five, Syracuse four, Buffalo two and Rochester one and a half inches.

Near Syracuse 150 motorists were stalled on a section of the new Penn-Can highway yesterday, but plows got traffic moving again.

Tuesday Last for Ballots

Tuesday is the last for mailing in ballots to nominate directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today by John B. Wilkie, chairman of tellers, who has called a meeting to count the vote at 4 p. m., Wednesday. Over 200 ballots have been received to date.

Gene and Mike's Family Savings Plan

Gene and Mike's Shoes Store at 71 Albany Avenue at Broadway has begun a Family Savings Plan under which the 13th pair bought by a family is at a reduced price, or possibly free, Mike Stabile, owner, reported.

The shoe store maintains records of each family's shoe purchases, and after the purchase of the 12th pair of shoes, the average of the prices for those dozen pairs is credited toward the purchase of the 13th pair.

Under the plan, the family has an option to exclude from the averaging all purchases of tennis shoes, rubber footwear or totes since their low prices would pull down the average.

Tillson Veterans' Plaque Dedicated

TILLSON—An impressive ceremony at Tillson School Sunday afternoon marked the dedication of an aluminum plaque, given by the Tillson Civic Association to the community, as a permanent memorial to the men and women of Tillson who served in the armed forces during World War 2.

Names on the plaque included those who were living in Tillson at the time of the war. The plate was made by members of the Civic Association, George Brown, Frank Chyzik, Gunther Newman and Chris Chenarides.

Speakers Presented

The Invocation was given by the Rev. Cuyler Thayer of Rosendale Reformed Church. Richard B. Talleur of Tillson Friends Church was master of Ceremonies, and presented the afternoon speakers.

George Mollenhauer, supervisor of the Town of Rosendale, discussed the recent election, during which he was asked to make a stand on veteran's exemptions. Mollenhauer said that he would "be very happy to discuss problems with veterans organizations in our town if so invited and I sincerely believe the other members of our town board would also."

George Fisher, commander of the local post, American Legion, spoke briefly and then dedicated the plaque in the name of the American Legion. He expressed sincere thanks to the Tillson Civic Association, especially to the men who were responsible for making the plaque a possibility.

He said that he had traveled extensively and found that many communities and cities had let their memorial plaques fall apart, seemingly having forgotten the part played by men in service during the past war. He was proud of the fact that the people in Tillson had made a permanent plaque or memorial possible.

W. K. Wakeley, chairman of the Tillson School board of education, accepted the plaque for the school.

Representatives of the local Boy Scout Troop under BM/1 Raymond Boyle, the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company and the American Legion were present. Following the ceremony, which was held in the auditorium, refreshments were served.

Selfish Cocker

CLINTON, Okla. (AP) — L. T. Bruce found out that dogs are as selfish as humans. When his grandson came to visit, he brought along his beagle puppy. The neighbor's cocker saw the beagle and promptly gathered up his playthings including two rubber balls, two rubber mice and a leather watch band, and laid down on top of them.

World agricultural production in 1956-57 is estimated at about 17 per cent higher than the 1948-52 average.

Weekend Mishaps In State Kill 26

ALBANY (AP) — Twenty-six persons were killed in accidents in New York State over a weekend marked, in some sections, by the first blast of winter.

Traffic accidents took 19 lives, two persons died in fires and five were killed in other types of accidents. Western New York was pummeled by heavy snow and winds.

Four persons were injured fatally on Route 22 in Patterson Saturday when two automobiles collided head-on.

There was one hunting fatality, two persons were asphyxiated by fumes, an Air National Guard pilot died when his jet crashed, and a sheriff's deputy lost his life when his patrol car missed a curve and struck a tree.

In the Patterson accident, the dead were Walfred Anderson Jr., 19, and Charles Napolitano, 18, both of Dover Plains, Clarence Reed, 29, of Granville and Alfred Scribner, 22, of Bridgewater, Conn.

Frank E. Lewis, 33, of Lewis was shot and killed yesterday while deer hunting. State police said his 17-year-old nephew mistook him for a wounded buck.

Capt. Donald L. Evans, 31, of Charlton, was killed Saturday when his National Guard jet interceptor crashed near Ballston Spa.

Charles Harlein, 73, of Palmyra, was overcome by gas fumes in his house-trailer Saturday and Ellen F. Clark, 14, of Buffalo, was asphyxiated by fumes from a water heater in a bathroom Saturday night.

William R. Leach, 49, a Yates County sheriff's deputy, was killed Friday night when his patrol car missed a curve and smashed into a tree.

In Penfield, J. Roby Dorrance, 6, jumped from a car rolling backward yesterday and was hit and killed by the car door.

Slate Book Fair In Local Schools

A book fair is being conducted the next few weeks until November 26 in the Kingston Schools by the Association for Childhood Education.

Children's books are being placed in the schools for inspection and selection. Children may order the books from the samples and delivery has been scheduled during December.

Books Displayed

Books have already been displayed at Schools 3 and 8 and sample books will be displayed in the other schools during the next two weeks.

The local association was organized about seven years ago to further educational opportunities for children. Membership consists of teachers of the Kingston School system.

Besides making the new teachers of the school system welcome by sponsoring an annual dinner or picnic each fall, the association sponsors a clothing drive. During November, in connection with American Education Week and Book Week, the association conducts the book fair.

Gravity, Speed Are Answers

'Moons' Stay in Air, Rockets 4,000 Miles High Fall Again

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Sputniks merrily circle the earth. But a U. S. rocket soaring 4,000 miles high falls back to earth. How come?

Why didn't the American rocket stay up when it went that high? What keeps Sputniks up? The questions still puzzle many people.

Gravity and speed are the main answers.

Can Overcome It

Gravity usually means that what goes up must come down.

But there's a way of getting around it. Sputniks travel fast enough so their speed counterbalances the pull of the earth's gravity. So they keep swinging around somewhat like a ball on the end of a string.

For a Sputnik near the earth, this speed has to be about five miles per second, or 18,000 miles an hour.

Our regular moon stays up for the same reason. It travels only about 2,300 miles an hour. But that's just right for a heavy moon 240,000 miles away from the earth. The earth's gravity keeps it on the invisible "string."

More Than Speed Needed

To hand a Sputnik in space, you need something more than just speed. You need very good timing and aiming.

If a rocket just goes straight up, it falls down again. The earth's gravity keeps slowing it down, like a brake on an auto. Finally it stops, and falls.

This is what happened to U. S. rockets that went higher than any Sputnik. President Eisenhower says three of them reached heights of 2,000 to 4,000 miles.

They weren't aimed to stay up.

To get a Sputnik up, you make the rocket curve so that the last-stage rocket is flying parallel to the earth. It's going about 10,000 miles an hour, at least 200 miles high.

Third Engine Fires

Then the third rocket engine fires off, and boosts the speed to nearly 18,000 miles an hour.

The rocket with its Sputnik tries to go straight, but gravity hauls on it and makes it curve. It circles the earth, with very, very little air friction to alter its speed.

The angle at which you fire the last rocket determines the orbit—how close or far away from earth it swings.

Perfect angling and speed might make it follow a true circular path. Actually, the path of Sputniks is an ellipse, close on one racetrack turn, farther away on the other.

Swings Around Center

It seems amazing that Sputnik II can stay up when it goes 1,000 miles away from earth, and at another time comes within about 100 miles.

But it's really swinging around the center of the earth. The earth's center is 4,000 miles below the crust. So Sputnik is really making a circuit with the ends of the ellipse 5,000 miles (4,000 plus 1,000) and 4,100 (4,000 plus 100) miles away from the earth's center.

The real moon also has an elliptical orbit.

Could our 4,000-mile-high rocket become a baby moon?

Obviously not unless it carried control mechanisms to get it pointed right, and unless it got its final burst of speed at the right time.

Reached 17,000 Miles

One of them reportedly reached 17,000 miles an hour, nearly enough speed.

Get a rocket going 25,000 miles an hour, and it can escape the earth's gravity. Gravity would try to pull it back, and make it slow down. But it would have enough energy or speed left to climb the hill, in effect, and get away.

Morse Complains That Public Not Informed

UTICA (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, says the Republican administration is keeping the committee and the public uninformed.

As a result, "No member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee could pass an elementary test in foreign policy," Morse said last night at a Jewish War Veterans dinner.

Health for All

NEW DISEASE NEEDED

We went to a "Western" at the local movie palace the other night. Wide screen, full color, and all the cliches we expect and couldn't do without. But we came away with an idea for a new disease. Hollywood needs one, and maybe we can make our fortune out of it.

The trouble with the old familiar diseases is that the public is getting too knowing about them. And when they catch one bad mistake they are likely to lose faith in the whole story. In this particular Western it was consumption — TB — the good old standby of drama. The hero had a pal who coughed all through the film—not that it interferred with his aim. This character lived dangerously—he was going to die any day, and he didn't want to die in bed. One day, it caught up with him: Big scene where he coughs out his lungs and collapses on the floor.

"Can't you see he's dying?" the girl says when his friend rushes in demanding his help in a shooting match with the bad guys. But he doesn't let his friend down. In a few minutes he's leaping over fences and dodging bullets. When it's all over, he feels better than ever.

TB is a disease with many unusual qualities. But even so, TB couldn't fit the pattern of that story. No known disease could. So we'll have to invent a new one for Hollywood, one that will call up sympathy for the hero but won't cut down on his riding, one that won't disfigure his beauty or waste his muscles, one that will linger long enough to keep the audience worried throughout the picture but can still be cured at the last minute.

Group Is Formed To Build New Nuclear Plant

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—A group of private industrial companies and utilities have formed American Nuclear Power Associates to design and build what is described as a radically new nuclear plant.

The Raytheon Manufacturing Co., in making this announcement Saturday, said the plant was believed to be a necessary forerunner to economically competitive nuclear power.

The group's engineering team will be located at Raytheon's research laboratories at Waltham.

In the group are Burns and Roe Inc., architect - engineers, New York City; Clark Brothers Co., division of Dresser Operations Inc., compressor and blower manufactuers, Olean, N. Y.; Griscom-Russell Co., subsidiary of General Precision Equipment Corp, heat exchange equipment manufacturers, Massillon, Ohio; Rockland Light and Power Co., Nyack, N. Y., and Raytheon.

The group expects to seek financial support from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Chevrolet trucks introduce a new brand of hustle for '58. Biggest news in the power lineup is the revolutionary, all-new 230-h.p. 348-cubic-inch Workmaster V8!
The Workmaster breaks away from conventional V8 design with a new Wedge-Head combustion chamber that helps to develop tremendous power. Combustion chambers are wedge-shaped, precision-machined, and located in the cylinder block rather than in the cylinder head. This means maximum power for each drop of fuel used, equalized work loads on each piston for smooth performance, less wear than ever.
No matter what your job . . . let your Chevrolet dealer show you the latest in V8 and 6 engines!

A JEWEL TO CHERISH

That old and honored phrase, "Lest we forget," still has meaning in 1957. It suggests our profound debt of remembrance to all who have fought the nation's wars since it was shaped on the anvil of revolution nearly two centuries ago.

But remembrance alone is a poor tribute to those we seek to honor on this Veterans' Day. Remembrance properly should be only the beginning of a chain reaction of thought. From remembrance we proceed to gratitude; from gratitude we should go on to a determination to live so that the fallen will not have sacrificed their lives in vain.

Those who preserved our freedoms on the field of battle gave us a priceless jewel. It is the duty and the privilege of those now alive to hold fast to that jewel and to make it shine as a beacon for all the world.

BUDGET PRESSURE

The furor caused by Russia's Sputniks and the consequent agonizing reappraisal of our own missiles program will almost certainly result in a big push to spend a lot more money and regain our position of leadership in this field. The arguments in favor of such a crash program are good ones. This country dares not fall behind the Soviet Union in the race to develop the new weapons.

It is likely, then, that defense expenditures —already $38 billion—will be increased. It does not follow that the entire federal budget must be increased. That may happen, but before it is allowed to happen there should be a thoroughgoing effort to cut back spending on less essential items instead of merely piling new defense costs on top of the present budget.

The trouble with cutting back on less essential government expenditures is that someone's ox is gored no matter what item of the budget is up for consideraton. Getting Congress to agree on what items shall be cut is an extremely difficult task.

But the effort must be made. The budget director's hope that next year's budget can be reduced to $70 billion may be unrealistic. With a crash missiles program indicated, the administration will very likely be able to do no better than hold the line. The important thing is that greater military costs should not be allowed to push the budget to a new high unless every reasonable effort has first been made to cut other expenses. Few things could more surely weaken the nation's posture of defense than an inflationary budget.

MECHANICAL HAZARD

The Interstate Commerce Commission's recent safety spot-check on trucks operating across states lines points to one way in which highway accidents might be reduced. The ICC gave thorough inspections to nearly 11,000 vehcles and found that 87.3 per cent of them had defects or deficiencies.

Almost 6,000 of the trucks checked had some fault in their braking systems. The most startling figure of all is that 20.9 per cent of all the vehicles given a complete inspection were ordered off the road at once because their condition was so hazardous.

An obvious conclusion to be drawn from the ICC tests is that many trucks on the road throughout the country—and doubtless many other cars, too—are not in tiptop driving condition. An effective system of catching mechanical defects before they become serious might go a long way toward cutting the accident toll.

WE STILL WONDER

When it comes to mysterious flying objects, saucer-shaped or otherwise, the population falls into three categories—those who believe that they are ships from outer space, those who pooh-pooh the whole idea, and those who wonder.

We wonder.

Our wondering is bolstered by the fact that the Air Force also wonders—at least to the extent of investigating every report of unidentified flying objects. The Air Force people have been pretty busy lately. Some mighty plausible-sounding reports of strange airborne vehicles have been popping into the news.

At least one eminent astronomer puts it all down to mirages. It seems that such phenomena are fairly common in parts of the country where curious things have been seen. The explanation sounds rather logical, the more so because it comes from a reputable scientist.

But all the same, we wonder.

THE COST OF BAD TRAINING

Let us look at it another way: there is no national monopoly on brains or ability. It is a question of the will to achieve, the will to survive, the belief in the purposes of collective and individual life. The two Sputniks are not a product of Marxism or of Leninism, but of the knowledge, capabilities and application of a group of men to an objective—to the objective of national pride and national survival.

That has been so throughout the history of mankind. We built a great nation not by security but by endless, back-breaking labor—labor of the mind and labor of the body. It is not only labor that counts but the capacity to sacrifice and subordinate oneself to a cause and a purpose.

A friend recently told me of a young lady who came for a good job, one for which she would be over-paid, if merit were the standard, but who would not take the job because of the requirement of working half a day on Saturday. That interfered with her social life. Hher ancestors worked harder than that to build a competence in a free society. Another person told me of an instance in which a trusted employe walked off a job without warning or notice because she was weary of her private associations and decided to leave town. Another told me of the failure of employes to accept any responsibility at all, doing just enough work not to justify dismissal. Such stories are accepted as normal these days.

But that is not the spirit that produces the Sputnik. Recently I listened to some youngsters who went into various ROTC's and all were discouraged because the terms of enlistment, of service, of promotion are constantly being changed, so that nobody can tell from one year to another where he stands. The arbitrariness of such changes discourages many young people from joining the services because they are more willing to take a chance on not becoming conscripts when the dividends for putting in four years of hard work during college years are so uncertain.

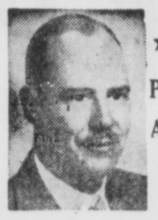

This weakness in our military organization is not limited to the ROTC. It runs all through the special organizations which are doing scientific work, where the pay is meagre and the continuance of work uncertain. Scientists and technicians take these jobs because they want to be in on the developments but as soon as private industry calls, they answer the call. It is not that they are unpatriotic; it is that their government regards them as secondary persons.

One of the problems that every school, every home, every employer encounters is the lack of respect, of self-discipline in most young people. It is to be noted in dress, in speech, in attitude. It often borders on insolence and when insolence is regarded as a mark of freedom and individuality, it is an index to social decay. The Russians have a term for it, "hooliganism," and the social offense is punishable as it should be. A good spanking early enough or a clip on the jaw later might not altogether cure but it could avert disaster.

What happens to a society of undisciplined individuals is that there is a substitution of values, a vulgarization of taste. When Sputnik II was orbited, Ingrid Bergman, an actress, announced a return to Hollywood. Some newspapers equated these two items as of equal value, although Sputnik II is probably the most revolutionary event in history and Ingrid Bergman was just a press agent's blurb. In fact, if Sputnik did its nasty business, there would be no actresses, no you and no me. For what Sputnik eventually can do is to throw a beam upon any part of the Earth and destroy whatever the beam strikes. Imagine what can happen with a dozen Sputniks orbiting the Earth or bombarding the moon or bombarding each other up in the distant yonder—and what will that do to us?

So while we ponder that, we are also supposed to wonder about the relations of an actress to a husband who has been violently advertised as having gone astray in India. I have, I hope, a sense of the humorous and the funny, but there is nothing funny about Sputnik. To the undisciplined mind, anything is good for a laugh but reality.

Psychological Aspects of Acne Seen Most Important

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Acne — adolescent pimples — apparently interferes little with the general health.

It is not a disorder, however, which should be taken lightly. Acne is of real importance to the victim for two principal reasons: The psychological effect at the time and the possibility that it may produce permanent scarring of the skin.

Acne is clearly a physical disorder. But its preference for the face and its frequency during adolescence when personal sensitivity is at its height make acne more important psychologically. It usually appears at the same time that youngsters begin to become interested in the opposite sex and in their own personal appearance. It often results in unfortunate personality effects.

ACNE USUALLY involves the face, neck, chest and upper part of the shoulders. The pimply lesion starts as a reddish lump which is slightly tender to touch. This lump frequently develops into a "whitehead," which consists of a mixture of pus, germs, skin oil and destroyed tissue cells. Eventually this opens and heals.

The pimples may come only occasionally, be widely spaced and lie near the surface of the skin. In more severe cases they come frequently, close together and bore deeply.

In the most severe cases the pustule is so large and deep that it may leave a permanent scar on the skin.

WHAT CAUSES acne is not certain. Infection plays a part, but so does diet. It has been noted frequently that the condition is likely to become worse when the victim eats too many sweets or miscellaneous foods or drinks, outside of regular meals. Furthermore, in many the condition becomes better in the summer with sun and exercise.

Treatment of the physical condition is of great importance. It seems wise that this should be taken under the direction of a skilled and sympathetic physician. He will prescribe the local treatments which seem best suited and also give advce on diet and other general health measures which affect the condition. Fortunately, the treatments now available are greatly improved.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT treatment development is what can sometimes be done for skin scars. Sandpaper or wire brush have been used successfully in many instances to improve the appearance.

I believe that the psychological aspects of acne are the most important. This requires understanding of family and friends as well as the boy or girl afflicted.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — You generally read only about the bad guys in government who leave Washington riding a rail or in disgrace.

When the good guys bow out of government after years of faithful service, they usually go so quietly that outsiders seldom hear about it.

And that's the way it was when Louis B. Nichols walked out of his office as No. 2 man in the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a Friday afternoon, after 23 years on the job.

The only thing he took with him was a lot of memories and his FBI gold badge — well, it looks like gold though it doesn't say 14 carat any place. Usually an agents turns in his badge when he quits. But FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had Lou's badge mounted on a plaque and gave it to him.

Lou Nichols is only 51—which is pretty young for retiring. He is still healthy and hard—over six feet and over 200 pounds. But being on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week for 23 years finally got him.

IN FAIRNESS to his wife and his two sons and in fairness to himself, he thought he'd better get out before he was carried out. That's what government strain does to its executives who work at their jobs conscientiously, with never a thought nor a claim for overtime.

Lou Nichols never led any spectacular gun-smoke raids. But he has had a hand in almost every FBI case for two decades. He headed the largest department in the bureau. It included supervision over FBI's communications network and the largest criminal file in the world, with literally millions of records. Also, he handled FBI public relations—as a sideline.

He can recall Pearl Harbor day. He went right to his office as soon as he heard the news that Sunday afternoon and he was there for three days and three nights straight.

He stood over teletype machines and dictated orders direct to the operators till the hundreds of Japanese, German and Italian agents — previously spotted and under observation—were all picked up and tucked away where they could do no harm.

HE CAN RECALL the Peter Weinberger kidnaping case on Long Island, on which he worked two days and two nights running. J. Edgar Hoover and Associate Director Clyde Tolson were both away at the time and Lou Nichols was in charge.

He directed the investigation from Washington, supervising the checking of over a million pieces of criminal handwriting to identify Angelo La Marca as author of the ransom note.

Nichols put in many a night on the Victor Riesel case, trying to run down the acid throwers. Hoover and Tolson were away when this case broke, too, and again Nichols was acting director. This time he had a personal interest, working to avenge a blinded newspaperman friend.

There was always something like that coming up. It ruins family life and after a time it gets even the best of men.

That is, all excepting J. Edgar Hoover himself, whom the FBI men always refer to as "The Director." There have been rumors lately that he might be retiring one of these years.

HE WILL BE 63 on January 1. He has been in Department of Justice for 40 years and head of the FBI for 33.

But he'll never quit, says Lou. He's single. The FBI is his family and his whole life. The only things that would ever make him think of retiring would be for some president or some attorney general to start using the FBI for political purposes. If that ever happens, J. Edgar will walk out.

Lou Nichols retires with The Director's blessing. He will take a vacation with his family first, then do a little loafing on a farm he bought recently, out near Leesburg, Va. Then he'll consider which one of several flattering offers which he says he has received to go into private business. But if he doesn't like that, The Director says he can come back to the FBI—any time. Which is the ideal way to leave any job, and the best kind of a recommendation a man can have.

A People-to-People Radio Is Termed Vital for Peace

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — This is a fateful anniversary—just thirty-nine years ago World War I ended. People everywhere breathed a sigh of relief on Nov. 11, 1918. They thought war had ended for all time. Day by day the casualties at the battlefronts had been recorded in the tens of thousands. Passenger ships had been torpedoed without warning. Never again, everybody said, would this happen.

Indeed as President Woodrow Wilson toured the country in September, 1919, in behalf of the League of Nations, he made a speech outlining the inventions and new weapons which would make "the next war" so terrifying as to be unthinkable. He described how tons of bombs could be dropped on cities. It was frightening news.

But twenty years later, the second World War broke out. Mr. Wilson had urged American entry into the League of Nations, and many of us who had supported this concept in 1919 found ourselves in a minority by the year 1932, when Franklin Roosevelt, Democrat, deserted us and persuaded the Democratic party to join with the Republican party in an era of American isolation.

"The Only Answer"

By 1937, Mr. Roosevelt had changed his mind, and by 1939 the awful truth was beginning to percolate that the sacrifices of World War I had been in vain and that the Wilson slogan of the war—"to make the world safe for democracy"—had not been fulfilled. Collective security through new alliances of free nations became the only answer.

Today, the world isn't safe for democratic government. Again—as in 1914 and in 1939—a totalitarian government reigns in the land of a powerful military rival. Instead of the Kaiser or Hitler, today it is the unscrupulous Khrushchev, successor to the unscrupulous Stalin. One-man rule can suddenly plunge the whole world into war. The people of Germany in 1914 or the people of Germany in 1939 would not have voted for war in any national referendum. The will of the people was not consulted before, and it is not being consulted in Soviet Russia today.

Is the world at the mercy of an autocratic ruler? Hitler used to talk as Khrushchev does today. He would argue for peace and, with the appearance of the utmost candor, express his desire to avoid war. Every appeasement—even the statement issued after the "summit" conference in 1938 between Britain's Chamberlain and the Nazi "Fuehrer" —was proclaimed as "peace in our time."

Human nature does't change much. One-man rule throughout the chapters of history turns out much the same, though the century of the geographical location may change.

How Curb Dictator?

Is there no way to checkmate a dictator? Must the world accept the inevitable outbreak of war when the dictator thinks it is time to conquer rival nations and force them into submission? Hitler and Goering used to display proudly in public their tanks and their bombing planes —the "Sputniks" of the 1930's—to all visitors from foreign lands. The purpose was to intimidate other nations and so show in advance that resistance would be futile. Soon the cry arose inside Britain, France and America: You can do business with Hitler." It came then from timid souls, just as today we hear: "You can negotiate with Khrushchev," or "You must recognize Mao Tse-tung of Red China." It's the favorite chant of the weak-kneed and the credulous.

Today, the Communist regime carries on its "peaceful co-existence" propaganda, and this gains coonsiderable acceptance in the Western world as the Soviet penetrate country after country, raising periodically a war threat as they did recently in Syria and previously in Indochina and before that in Korea. The pattern is the same even to the repetition of "disarmament conferences" like those empty gestures of bygone days.

Seek New Invention

What is the answer? Man has invented ways of spinning iron balls around the world, but not a single device as yet that enables peoples to talk to peoples. Scientific research in this field is needed far more than instruments which will reach the moon. The radio does some broadcasting now across international boundaries in Europe, but radio waves can be jammed to impair listening and, besides, relatively few persons behind the Iron Curtain have radio sets.

Some day when a "loudspeaker" is invented that cannot be jammed and that doesn't need a receiving set, thereby achieving effective communication constantly with the peoples of other countries, the greatest step toward peace will have been taken. For when peoples know all the facts without censorship, they can be persuaded to get rid of those rules who have misled them and who can plunge them into war against their will. Free governments can thereupon be established.

Then—when it is really safe for democracy to live without huge armaments—there will be world peace.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

You name it! Texas has got it!

Texas could swallow New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania with room left for little old, beat-up, rundown, dilapidated Rhode Island with her obsolete port of Providence and her sway-backed, rickety, textile towns.

Texas has a tropical coastline as fair as Florida's, but with more seaports on it and more commerce whether in tons or dollars.

Mountains? Waters? Climates? Wealth?

And, finally, people?

The Constitution wouldn't let them, but Texas and at least three other southern states, Louisiana, South Carolina, and Mississippi, would select their immigrants, if they could. The sentimental invitation to wretched refuse on the plinth of the Statue of Liberty is not a quote from the Constitution but an unofficial effusion of an ephemeral New York poet.

It is ironic that the vast epileptic whose bombast has been notorious the world over for a hundred years, the vulgar, corrupt, filthy, metropolis of the western world, boastful of her squalor and her crime-rate, lately should have chosen Texas as the butt of abusive propaganda, belittling virtue when she hath it not. Sneering at the manners, the ethics and principles of a pushful, stalwart American people.

New York is the center of the publishing business and radio and of the many sinister phases of propaganda which go forth as "entertainment," drenching the nation with her peculiar morals. Her picture magazines blanket the barber shops of the whole country. There is no counter-current flowing out of Texas.

Criticism of Texas comes awkwardly from the city whose poet George M. Cohen, sang the braggart anthem "When You're Away From Old Broadway, You're Only Camping Out." The "Old Broadway" that Cohan loved sincerely, was a street of theatres, talent and wit in the time of his credentials. But he died embittered and sad. The theatres of his Gay White Way are hollow, dirty, abandoned hulks serving as scaffolds for the electric signs, "Broadway" became a tawdry patch in the material sense and even worse in literary and moral qualities. A few southern authors of sordid genius have written some of the vilest discharge which New York has poured out in books, movies and plays in recent years. But they had to go to New York to find the commercial facilities to permeate the hinterlands with stuff otherwise encountered only on certain walls.

Texas has minerals, great cities, great prairies, cattle, cotton, and more than a drop of oil and a whiff of natural gas. She has leisure. She has room. She can produce a terrible norther with blizzards and sleet and the balmy lure of an azure sea on the same day. The bee-line from Brownsville on the Gulf to the Oklahoma line is about 600 miles. El Paso is much farther from Texarkana than Chicago is from Dallas.

The coastal strip of the Gulf of Mexico is a tropical fishing ground in the same parallels with the undisputed seductions of the Florida tropics. The chief difference up to now has been that the Texas coast hasn't been discovered. The Rio Grande Valley is almost confidential, but a bounteous land in her own right.

Texans with business in New York put down there lightly and laugh off envious ridicule of an old seaport whose commerce has been strangled by unions. New York hotels have changed and Texans don't tarry.

The oil works, the petrochemical mazes, a new world of industry, raise weird, enormous shapes in the Odessa-Midland desert and down along the Gulf Coast. The ship canal which moved the seas up to the inland city of Houston is a solid avenue of huge, ugly wealth. (There is a hundred-mile stretch of similar miraculous growth from Baton Rouge to New Orleans.)

To the eastward, Longview, Tex., only recently a dusty country trading-post, has burst into unbelievable bloom as a miniature of Dallas, which in turn mimics Paris in fashions and tries to shove wine on whiskey drinkers. And suburbs of Longview are held down now by great, solid industrial works producing plastics, heavy construction machinery and steel. The Lone Star Steel Mill at Daingerfield, recently troubled by a firecracker reign of terror incidental to a strike, is back at work, turning out miles and miles of pipe and casing for the oil and gas industries all made from Texas iron ore mined nearby.

Unhappy Furlough

MARION, Ohio (AP)—It was a long furlough from the U. S. Army for Victor Howard Berry, 18, but not a happy one. It started when he came home from Italy for 40 days because his father was injured in an auto accident. That was extended 10 more days. His dad recovered, but his sister was in an auto accident. The leave was extended 20 more days. The sister is recovering. Then Berry himself landed on the recovery list. He shot off his big toe while squirrel hunting.

Rejected was a resolution calling for the recognition of Red China.

Leaders Urging Legislature to Present Bills Early

ALBANY (AP)—Legislative leaders of both parties have urged members of the Legislature to help prevent a "log jam" in the 1958 session by introducing bills early, it was announced today.

In a letter to all members, the leaders said the most serious peak load of the session develops during the last week for introduction of bills by individual members. This occurs midway through the session. This year, the leaders said, 1,082 Senate and 1,171 Assembly bills were introduced in that week.

The leader said this peak load "taxes the capacities and endurance of the printer and of the legislative index organization almost to the breaking point." They called on the individual members "to make every possible effort to reduce this mid-session peak load by introducing bills earlier."

Earlier introduction of bills, the letter said, would permit a greater volume of committee work to get under way earlier, so that fuller calendars could be developed and final action taken earlier on more bills in both houses.

Desk staffs of the Senate and Assembly will be ready Friday to receive 1958 bills, the leaders announced.

The letters to senators were signed by Senate majority leader Walter J. Mahoney and minority leader Joseph Zaretzki, and to Assemblyman by speaker Oswald D. Heck and minority leader Eugene F. Bannigan.

Reasons Outlined For Gap Between America and Asia

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The gaps between Asia and America remain wide, but America's largest conference on Asia which ended here over the weekend detailed ways to close them.

The sixth national conference for UNESCO ended Saturday with a warning by India's first lady, Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, that "half the world cannot move around in oxcars while the other half rides in Cadillacs."

Closing the oxcart-Cadillac gap was only one small phase of the conference, where 1500 Americans from all over the country attacked the problem: "Asia and the United States—What the American citizen can do to promote mutual understanding and cooperation."

Greetings from President Eisenhower, Japanese Prime Minister Nohusuke Kishi, Philippines President Carlos Garcia and other chiefs of state underlined the urgency of the conference.

"The importance of Asian-American relations to the peace of the Pacific and the whole world cannot be overstressed," said Kishi in a statement.

Mme. Pandit, India's high commissioner to the United Kingdom, cited these reasons for lack of Asian-American understanding:

1. American ignorance of Asia. Asians also don't know what America is all about, she said.

2. Racial prejudice in the United States, which she conceded hits Asians with "disproportionate impact."

3. Resentment of Asian national experiments in socialism. "We in Asia. . .must develop our democracies according to our own conditioning and our own needs."

4. The oxcart-Cadillac gap, which she called "an inbalance (of). . . far greater danger to the world than the deadliest weapons of destruction."

One panel group suggested doubling U. S. aid to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization every two years for a decade.

Delegates agreed economic aid must continue and be expanded but with more attention to Asia's real needs than to what Americans think Asia needs.

Also that more and better news, both ways, is needed; so are more movies, books, art forms and personal contacts.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was irregularly higher early this afternoon in slow Veterans Day trading.

Key stocks were up from fractions to around a point.

Gains were shown among steels, motors, aircrafts, coppers, radio-televisions and selected issues. Some losses appeared among oils, chemicals and rails.

The average was depressed by a sharp drop in Standard Oil (New Jersey) as trading began in rights to subscribe to its new stock issue calculated to bring in between 250 and 300 million dollars.

Jersey Standard was down 2⅝ to 48½ on an opening block of 30,000 shares. In later trades the loss was cut to about 2 points.

Dealings in the rights were brisk. The firm's shareholders are entitled to rights to subscribe to one new share for every 30 shares held.

Rosendale Board Approves Town Lighting Petition

ROSENDALE — The town board voted to place a total of seven lights in the High Falls Park building development, in accordance with a petition for lights presented at the meeting Thursday night.

The board announced that 11 other lights at a cost of $853 would be put into operation in the town of Rosendale. George Mollenhauer, supervisor of the town, said that as a result of action initiated by Tillson Civic Association some time ago, these lights will be placed at intersections considered dangerous.

Civic Sought Lights

Tillson Civic Association originally requested lights for Route 32 in Tillson, which is now a speed limit zone, and such lighting was recommended by the State Traffic Commission. The Town Board later asked the State Traffic Commission to make a study of the entire town, and the traffic commission advised the board to make their own study. As a result of this study, lights will be placed at the following locations:

In Tillson, at the four corners at McEvoy's grocery and Post Office, at the top of the hill near Ballantine's, and at the intersection of Tillson Road and the Springtown Road near Coon's; in Cottekill, at Lucas Avenue Extension and Four Corners; at Lucas Avenue and the road to Fourth Binnewater; at Keator's four corners and depot road; in Rosendale at the top of Cornell Hill and Alberts Avenue or Old Route 32; at Maple Hill near Schmidt's service station; at DeWitt Mill, Route 32 and Hurley Road and at Costello Road near Brodsky's in Maple Hill.

The Town Board recently accepted the Tillson Estates Roads from John Delora, and it was voted to erect street signs in that development. A public hearing was held for the adoption of the budget for the coming year.

Rescue Hope

man said reevaluation of the sighting—reported by a lone airman—indicated it could have been a school of whales instead of a marker, or possibly other fish.

Another hopeful report—that of an oil slick—was being thoroughly checked by surface craft. But darkness foreclosed that search.

The airliner—"Romance of The Skies"—carried 36 passengers and a crew of eight on its flight from San Francisco toward Honolulu. At 5:04 p. m., Pacific Standard Time, Friday it routinely radioed its position 1,028 miles east of Honolulu. The pilot was supposed to make another routine report at 6 p. m.

He didn't. The plane abruptly, and silently, disappeared.

That set off the biggest peacetime search in the Pacific. And it prompted speculation — but described as "pure speculation"—that something sudden and terrifying had happened. Pan American officials refused to speculate. They said emphatically that nobody knew or could guess what had happened to the four-engine, luxuriously equipped plane.

Restaurant

tric clock on the restaurant wall had stopped at 5:15 p. m.

Not in Room

Deputy Chief Sanford said two doors on the second floor were forced in when it was reported an occupant of one room was believed to be in the building. A routine search disclosed that all rooms on the second floor were unoccupied at the time of the fire.

Workmen from the Kingston Water Department, under the direction of Superintendent Edmund T. Cloonan, responded with a portable unit and pumped out the basement of the building.

Provenzano said today he was awaiting the arrival of insurance company representatives and he could not immediately determine when repairs would be made and the restaurant reopened.

No Damage Estimate

Chief Brett said today the cause still was undetermined and there was no estimate of damage.

Deputy Chief Sanford dispatched Engine 1 and Truck 1, Central station; Engine 3, Truck 2, Wiltwyck station; Engine 4, A. H. Wicks Engine & Truck Co., and the latter's salvage truck.

Men and equipment from Cornell station covered the Central headquarters during the fire, and Rapid Hose Co. covered Cornell station. Wiltwyck station was covered by men and equipment from Excelsior Hose Co., and the Twaalfskill Hose Co., and Wiltwyck squad truck stood by.

An alarm at 10:26 p. m., Saturday was for a fire in a Neon sign on the used car lot of J. H. Byrne Chevrolet Corp., 731 Broadway. Engine 3 responded.

McEntee Street Woman Hurt as Auto Hits Tree

Miss Julia Sisco, 30, of 100 McEntee Street, who was injured Sunday at 4:25 p. m. when her car struck a tree on that street, was reported in "fair" condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Police reported Miss Sisco suffered multiple injuries.

Officers Meyer Levy and Frank Sonner reported that Miss Sisco's 1946 sedan, headed east on McEntee Street, struck a tree, and the front of the car was demolished.

Webster was born in a two-room log cabin near Frank..., N. H.

Po River Drives Many From Homes

ROVIGO, Italy (AP) — The rain-swollen Po, north Italy's mightiest river, burst its dikes today, flooding thousands of acres of farmland and driving hundreds from their homes.

Soldiers, firemen and police were rushed to the danger zone in the Po delta where dikes guard towns of up to 25,000 inhabitants who live almost at sea level.

Eleven big tugs battled the swollen river's floodtide to haul tons of sandbags and stone to teams of volunteers trying to plug breaches in the dikes.

The city of Rovigo sent scores of rowboats by truck to be used in rescuing marooned farm families from lands in some places seven feet under water.

The peril magnified hourly as a strong east wind carried an exceptionally high tide into the vast rice and grain growing delta from the Adriatic, to pile up against the river's flood current.

Narcotic in Food

secretary of defense should be given "much wider powers" over the individual services.

Wants Authority

Rep. Davis (D-Ga) urged creation of a strong federal authority to bring "some order" to the defense effort. Davis, who heads a House subcommittee on manpower utilization, said there has been waste of scientific manpower in and out of government.

In Chicago, Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) said in a speech to an oil group that President Eisenhower should "give even more dynamic leadership" to an effort to overcome Soviet supremacy in missiles.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), a leading economy advocate, said the United States can spend another two billion dollars on missiles development without throwing the budget out of balance. But he said Eisenhower would have to cut "nonessential" domestic spending to make this possible."

Donald Quarles, deputy secretary of defense, said this country has rockets capable of doing the same kind of thing as the Soviet rockets that fired Sputnik II into its orbit. He did not specify what American rockets he was talking about.

Quarles and his boss, Secretary of Defense McElroy, had a date today to confer with Eisenhower, and it was believed they would discuss ways to push ahead U. S. work in missiles and satellites.

Russian Schools

United States, it said, enrollment in comparable institutions increased from 1,114,000 to 2,996,000 over the same span.

Meanwhile, a separate study of Soviet publications dealing with education showed that by the time Russian students have completed 10 years of primary and secondary schooling, they have received 1,353 hours of classroom and laboratory instruction in science.

While saying the Soviet educational emphasis is on science, the Office of Education report indicated that Russia may be behind the United States in providing higher education for its young people.

The report's main point was that Russia educates its children for the good of the state while schooling in the United States aims at developing the individual.

A leading American scientist said yesterday that if the United States is to hold world scientific leadership "We must reawaken a regard for hard work and stern efforts."

Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the National Academy of Sciences, said in a television interview (ABC-Open Hearing) that "We have been living for a long time on the luxury of past achievements."

Bronk also said the American educational system has encouraged students to avoid hard intellectual work for easy courses.

Nation's Dead Are Honored at Tomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's military dead from all wars were honored today at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, where next year three unknowns from as many conflicts will lie.

Gov. Joe Foss of South Dakota, a Marine flying ace in World War II and an Air Force officer during the Korean conflict, was the principal speaker for Veterans Day ceremonies timed to mark the anniversary of the Armistice which ended World War I.

When next Veterans' Day comes there will be three unknown soldiers — symbols of all the unknowns who died in two world wars and Korea. The unknowns of World War II and Korea will be placed in crypts at the tomb on Memorial Day, May 30, 1958.

President Eisenhower's staff secretary, Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, was named by the Chief Executive to represent him in laying a wreath at the tomb in Arlington National Cemetery. Selected to escort Goodpaster was the commander of the military district of Washington, Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten.

Investor Forum

SPUTNIK AND COMPANY

The rugged and well-conditioned halfback on a ranking football team was knocked cold in the second scrimmage of the first quarter of a major game. His coach sent out a stretcher to take the player to the clubhouse.

There, the team's physician gave him a thorough examination and found nothing seriously wrong. In the fourth quarter of the same game, the same player, using the same play that had previously floored him, dashed 16 yards off tackle for a winning touchdown.

America's economy is much like that. Sputnik, the situation in the Middle East, tight money, the banking of some steel furnaces, the uncertainty about automobile sales — here are five linemen that are jamming up the lanes through which America's prosperity salesman are trying to carry the ball.

The star carrier may temporarily be side-lined, but he will come back strong in a later period and a robust prosperity will eventually win the game.

Ford Common

About two years ago, the Ford Foundation announced plans to sell some of its large common stock holdings. Even before investors knew the statistics about sales, profits and dividend policies of this company, there was a tremendous demand for the shares. They were heavily oversubscribed at $64½ a share.

When a 200-share subscriber was allotted 20 shares, he became indignant. And when the shares sold through $70, he was plain mad. For a week, he wouldn't speak to his broker.

Well, recently he could have bought, without quarreling with anybody, 1,000 shares of Ford common at $44½ a share—$20 under the price when he became incensed at his broker, through the latter's failure to deliver enough stock.

Public psychology about the stock market being what it is, how can anyone accurately figure when stock prices are too high or too low? Why is this investor disinterested in Ford common at $44½ when, less than two years ago, he wanted 200 shares at $64½? His psychology has changed. Economic and military events have settled into his consciousness and even though he has capital to invest, he is buying nothing.

Put Priciples First

In these days when the feelings of people supersede their judgment, it is important that investors put principles ahead of prices. The reason why I like ten-year investment plans under which those who save money regularly purchase shares like Standard Oil of New Jersey, Du Pont, and General Motors is that when investor psychology is negative (and usually prices are low), shares are bought at favorable times.

On my desk is a letter from a young investor with $1,000 to put to work. He asks: "Should I buy 25 shares of General Motors at $39 a share, or wait for it to go lower?"

Prices and not principles are in the center of his thoughts. They should be reserved. And his investment thinking should be reorganized. Of course, everybody would like to buy on the bottom and sell (when they do) on the top. But those who happen to do so are just lucky.

Economic America has tremendous capacity for resurgence. Just as a damaged halfback comes back in the fourth quarter to carry across the winning touchdown, so the temporarily slowed-down economic forces of this country gather themselves together and surpass anything that has gone before.

If more investors would buy when the public is pessimistic and sell when it is optimistic, they would do better.

(A) I wouldn't. Rather, I would buy more shares on the scale down.

loss of teeth with their concomitant dental problems.

"However, with size of the problem as it exists today, the limited number of dentists avilable and the high rate of incremental defects, only a small portion of the problem is being met by corrective service. This is especially true for that segment of the population that can least afford to purchase needed care."

Advocating fluoridation of public drinking water supplies, he said studies of this technique in the United States and Canada have demonstrated its capabilities of reducing tooth decay by 60 per cent.

385 Climbers Lose Lives in Alps in Year

ROME (AP) — Europe's rugged Alps, an eternal challenge to man's spirit of adventure, dealt out death to 385 climbers this year. It was the most tragic mountaineering season ever recorded.

An Associated Press survey, made as November snows ended the Alpine climbing season, showed this country-by-country toll: Germany, 43, Switzerland 111, France 42, Austria 109 and Italy 80.

The total was almost 50 per cent greater than 1953, the worst previous year, when 269 perished in the Alps.

Ingrid Refuses To Discuss Break

LONDON (AP)—Ingrid Bergman arrived in London last night to work on a new film and refused to discuss her break with her husband, Roberto Rossellini.

Her eyes filling with tears at a question about her legal separation last week from the Italian director, the actress said:

"There has been too much reaction to our decision."

The reaction, she added, was "not much more considerate than it had been before," apparently in reference to the publicity which accompanied her affair with Rossellini nearly eight years ago while she was still married to Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Miss Bergman said her three children by Rossellini would remain in Rome until she finds an apartment in London. She said she expected to remain in the British capital at least six months but "I'll go back to Italy now and then. . .on and off." She added she had no plans to go to Hollywood.

Miss Bergman also denied a Stockholm report that she plans to marry Lars Schmidt, a wealthy Swedish impresario. The actress was met at the airport by Cary Grant, her co-star in the coming film comedy "Kind Sir."

from the deteriorating situation at home."

In a broadcast Saturday he said his people resented "lies fabricated recently by the hired trumpets of propaganda in Egypt against Jordan with the intention of stirring mutiny."

Half or more of Jordan's population is composed of Palestine Arabs, people easily stirred by any hint that their claim to their old homes in Israel might be sacrificed in a peace settlement.

The Egyptian and Syrian press and radio have assailed Hussein intermittently since he ousted a pro-Egyptian and leftist government in a major crisis last spring.

The papers renewed the campaign last week printing various stories about alleged negotiations between Jordan and Israel, and darkly hinting Hussein would suffer the same fate as his grandfather—assassination.

Elected Official, Democrats Pledge Selves to Town

WOODSTOCK — Mrs. Tobie Geertsema, who was elected as an independent candidate, endorsed by the Democrats, and officers of that party have pledged themselves to future activity in town government.

Mrs. Geertsema chosen at the Polls Nov. 5 over Herbert Keefe, Republican councilman for eight years, said in a message of appreciation for support, "I assure them (the voters) that I intend to stay very close to them in every phase of our town government in the coming four years of my term."

Mrs. Geertsema won by more than 100 votes, running on issues of increased public interest and participation in government and centralization with Onteora. She was an enrolled Republican.

Four leaders of the Democratic cause joined in announcing: "We will support wholeheartedly our present town board, or any of its members, when we believe they are in the right; we will just as wholeheartedly oppose what we think is wrong for Woodstock and its citizens."

The four were Louis A. Lewis, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee; Kenneth Downer, president, Woodstock Democratic Club; Raymond G. Kenyon, campaign manager and Abe Kramer, publicity.

They further stated, "We (Democratic Party) have shown we have a strong and rightful voice in this community. We will raise it whenever we feel it is necessary in the interests of this community; and we expect it will be democratically heard and respected."

NO FASHION CAREER FOR PEGGY?

Peggy longs for the day when the three magic words, "Designs by Peggy," will mean she's arrived in the fashion world. But she needs a lot of good schooling to make her wish come true.

Unfortunately, Peggy lives in a community where there's a serious shortage of classrooms, teachers and good schoolbooks. That means less schooling for Peggy than she needs.

Let's see that this doesn't happen in our schools. You can help by supporting our School Board, by attending PTA meetings and school conferences.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never learn if he didn't open his mail, his mind or his ears:

That some Pakistani villagers have an odd way of testing a bridegroom. . . . He is hauled before relatives of the bride who insult him with every abusive term they can call him. . . . The theory: If he can survive the vocabulary of his new in-laws, he can put up with anything from his bride.

That during the next year out of 1,000 people, 320 will be sick once, 140 twice, 50 three times, 20 four or more times . . . and 470 won't get sick at all (or if they do, they won't brag about it).

Welcome Beacon

That British playwright John Osborne, explosive young author of "Look Back in Anger," has this to say about one characteristic of his native land: "The stiff upper lip is a physical deformity" . . . but there are also times when it has been a welcome international beacon.

That Kate Smith still visits the grave of her dog, Freckles, in Hartsdale Cemetery, at least once a year. . . . The cocker spaniel died five years ago.

That bandleader Sammy Kaye gives this definition of a talking picture: "Any picture you see with your wife."

That if you want to be sure an ink-written address won't be smeared on your Christmas packages, rub the area several times with the stump of a white candle.

That this is one legend on the origin of the phrase "make mine Manhattan": A Florentine navigator landed on the present site of New York City, and gave the natives liquor. . . . The grateful indians named this location "Mannaha-ta," or "place of drunkenness."

First Strip in 1850

That the home of the comic strip is England, not America. . . . Artist Richard Doyle, who designed the cover of Punch, started the first comic strip in 1850.

That although the Russians have hurled a dog in a Sputnik 1,000 miles into space, no human being has ever penetrated even five miles into the surface of the earth itself.

That, according to the Fisherman Magazine, the nation's 21 million anglers spend more than $30,000,000 a year on live bait. . . . So if you want to grow a crop that sells, plant worms.

That the ostrich, contrary to popular belief, doesn't bury its head in the ground when frightened. . . . It runs for the nearest horizon.

That scientists estimate the next ice age will begin about the year 50,000 A. D.

That it was William Lyon Phelps who observed, "This is the final test of a gentleman: his respect for those who can be of no possible service to him."

Sign Error

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP)—Chief Bod Hardin and his fire laddies busied themselves recently making some rustic signs for the city hall grounds; signs saying "entry," "exit" and such. The signs are carefully made by cutting letters in wood with an electric router and then emblazoning them with yellow paint. Imagine the fire chief's embarrassment when he discovered that the sign so carefully made for the front of the fire station had his name spelled "Hadin" instead of Hardin.

The White House grounds, in the center of Washington, D. C. are a haven for birds.

What a Firm Can Do To Ease Retirement

By BEULAH STOWE

"What is the answer, from the standpoint of a business firm, to the problem of retirement?" asked the personnel manager of a company with about 375 employes.

He had a voice in the management of the company. He wanted to help the people whom he helped push out the door at age 65 to find a good life.

He knew about all the books on how to retire at the public library. He knew about the research going on at the University of Michigan and Duke University. But he didn't have the answer he wanted. The human angle.

I asked personnel men with large corporations, and college professors.

This is the substance of their thinking:

1.—If a company insists on retiring its people at age 65, the policy should be firm and WITHOUT EXCEPTION. It should impress the fact on each employe at age 60 that age 65 is the limit. No false hopes, and no 15-minutes-before-retirement reprieves.

2—The company should tell every 60-year-old employe exactly what pension and Social Security prospects are. Not in interviews but in writing. Preferably, this report should be mailed home. The spouse needs this information, and needs to know what sort of option the employe might claim on a pension.

3—The company should investigate every channel to see if it can continue hospitalization insurance after the employe retires.

4—The company should start a geography session, on company time, for every employe at age 63. Most people know little about this country. They should be told the facts about retirement areas—the costs, the taxes, the cilmate, the chances for happiness. The company should also start sessions on types of jobs an employe of XYZ company can get after retirement. Executives at XYZ know what kindred firms might use the services and experiences of its people.

5—The company should move every employe into a new job at least one year before retirement — to condition him for walking out the door. Conditioning is badly needed.

Q—"When my husband passed on he left me $8,000 in life insurance and the house, worth about $14,000. I have $1,100 more in U. S. bonds. Apart from this, I have $48 Social Security a month. I want to move to Long Beach, Calif. Can I do it?" —Mrs. B. R. C.

A—Not very well. If you sell your house, then invest the $14,000 and the $8,000, you'll get only about $70 a month. The $70 plus your $48 a month isn't enough. If you rented your house for $125 a month you'd net about $148 a month. Still not enough.

Many wives who never had over $30 at once in their lives think $8,000 or $14,00 is a fortune. It's not.

Why don't you rent out rooms in your house, save the proceeds, then go live it up in Long Beach for three weeks? That'll probably be about all you want.

New laxative lets you sleep all night ...and awaken to gentle relief

No cramps to disturb your sleep...no "rush action" in the morning

4 advantages you need in your laxative

1. You awaken to gentle relief! How wonderful to know that the laxative you take need not spoil your nights' sleep. You take this tiny tablet at bedtime. Then, sleep the night through with no upset, no spasm, and no urgency. Tempo® Laxative Tablets usually wait until you awaken to give you gentle, but thorough relief.

2. No embarrassing urgency. You can take this new Tempo laxative without worrying about it suddenly causing a violent, unpleasant urge at an embarrassing moment. You see, there has never before been a laxative like Tempo! A tiny tablet that travels past your stomach and dissolves only when it reaches the large intestine. Only then do your reflexes respond—not urgently—but with a natural-like movement.

3. For women especially. There are special times when a woman needs a laxative—when constipation can become an upsetting problem. Tempo laxative is the answer for those times when you must be extra careful. It is so gentle it has been used even after hemorrhoidal surgery . . . so safe, it can be used by nursing mothers.

4. For all the family too. You can forget about special laxatives for the kids . . . another for grandma! Here's one for all! Effective enough for Dad . . . gentle enough for grandmother . . . one tablet safe enough for a school child. Tempo is the only laxative you need in your medicine chest for all the family. Get Tempo at your druggist today. Only 49¢.

FREE SAMPLE!

Within the next few days representatives of Vick Chemical Company, makers of Vicks VapoRub, will call at most homes in Kingston. You will be given a free introductory package of Tempo Laxative Tablets. Now you can discover for yourself the new kind of relief that Tempo will give you.

Escape from Death In Well Called Miracle by Doctor

WATERLOO (AP)—A doctor says it is "a miracle" that Clarence Guthrie, 53, escaped alive from the bottom of a 22-foot well where he was buried for three hours.

Guthrie left Waterloo Memorial Hospital yesterday after treatment for shock, exposure and bruises.

He was trapped under tons of rock Saturday when the sides of a well he was cleaning collapsed. Rescuers said the rock was piled more than a foot over Guthrie's head. He never lost consciousness.

Dr. Paul C. Jenks, who worked with rescuers, said: "It's a miracle he's alive. The stones must have landed on him in such a way that he could move his chest to breathe and get some air through the crevices between the boulders."

The well was dry.

Guthrie is a crane operator in a plant in nearby Seneca Falls.

Family Together Again After 11 Years of Struggle

CHICAGO (AP)—A reunited family today marked the end to 11 years of separation, 11 years spent by the American father in seeking to free his Lithuanian wife and two children from a Communist labor camp in Siberia.

Brimming with happiness, William Gavcus, 47, a naturalized American greeted his happy family at Midway airport yesterday as they finished the last leg of a journey from Siberia.

When he saw them yesterday for the first time in more than a decade, he was speechless with emotion—couldn't believe his fondest hopes had been realized. "Everything dimmed—I was in tears," Gavcus told newsmen in explaining his reaction at meeting his family.

"I'm just beginning to come to. I am the happiest man in this whole, wide world. I do not have the words to express myself."

He wept as they stepped out of their plane, and then he took them home.

Take It Calmly

Monika, his 44-year-old wife, took it calmly. So did their daughter, Rutha, 16, and son, Romualda, 13. Neither Mrs. Gavcus nor the children speak English but they chatted happily in Russian and Lithuanian.

Gavcus married Monika in 1939 on a trip to this native country. He had to leave his family behind when he returned to the United States in 1946, he said. But he began then to plead with officialdom to bring the family together on American soil.

Three years after they separated, the wife and children were sent to a collective farm in Siberia. Gavcus intensified his appeals. He asked an attorney from New York, Marshall MacDuffie, to help.

Go to Khrushchev

Macduffie, a former United Nations official, took the appeal personally to Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev, but he met with little success.

Eventually MacDuffie asked Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to intercede. She too spoke directly to Khrushchev.

This year the family was released. Gavcus, who operated a liquor store in suburban Oak Park, said he financed most of the Siberia-to-Chicago trip himself.

The wife of the Lithuanian consul, Mrs. Petras Dauzvardis, said their reunion marked the first time the Soviets have released anyone from Siberia to settle in the U. S.

Take-Out Leads to Slaughter

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

East looked at his collection of trash and held his breath when his partner made a business double of the two-heart contract. Fortunately, he held his breath long enough to pass.

West opened the king of trumps and continued with the queen. Declarer took that trick with the ace, cashed dummy's ace and king of clubs and led a spade to his jack. West grabbed the ace, played another trump and then led a low diamond. East played the queen and returned the suit, so that eventually South was down four tricks plus the hundred honors.

North and South blamed each other for the tragedy and have asked me to assess the blame.

South contended that his one-heart response to the double was all right and that North should not have raised him with only three hearts. He also contended that North should have run to two spades.

North's contention was that South should have bid two clubs in response to the take-out double and should have run to three clubs after the double of two hearts.

I must assess the major blame to South. His partner had made a take-out double and South had a perfectly satisfactory two-club response. The weaker your hand the more it is your duty to make your normal response to a take-out double.

However, I must also give North a little blame. North really did not have a heart raise and he should definitely have gotten off the hook when West doubled. Things would be just as bad at two hearts if South held a fourth baby heart, but two spades could not be slaughtered.

Announce New Way to Drain Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New tablet invention for sinus sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pains

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet invention which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or your full purchase price will be refunded.

Little Man the Boss

By FRANK TRIPP

It was "specious analogy," says Dan Throop Smith, for me to compare the American home with small business; to declare, in a recent column, that homemakers can't begin to maintain a family on $600 a year per person, $1.70 a day, their tax exemption.

Mr. Smith, economist, educator, once Harvard professor, is the Eisenhower administration's chief of tax policy, deputy to the Secretary of the Treasury. He has spoken.

"This $600 is not necessarily related to the cost of operating a household," he says. "It is an act of grace to have any exemption."

Frank Tripp

Is it also an "act of grace" that business may deduct its costs and be taxed only upon what it earns in excess of cost?

How long could American industry survive if it arbitrarily faced for all business a ridiculous predetermined figure within which all industry, large or small, should keep its costs and be taxed upon all excess, according to the needs or whims of tax authorities? That is what happens to the homemaker.

ONE DOESN'T need to be an economist to learn that the boasted American standard of living cannot begin to be achieved at today's costs for anything like $1.70 a day per family member.

It could have been done 50 years ago; might be done today by a hermit, on starvation diet. The nubbin of my "specious analogy" was the injustice of a tax system which does not let a family man earn a decent living before he begins to pay an income tax.

Economist Smith seeks to mollify the American workman by showing how much better he fares than the Englishman.

IT IS a bit disturbing to find our chief of tax policy likewise resorting to "specious analogy" of the American and English economies; hoping to make overtaxed people content because someone overseas is taxed worse.

All of which is less important than is word from tax head quarters that tax relief, if any, will not come about through recognition of the little man's housekeeping costs, if the administration can help it.

On that point Mr. Smith and I disagree again. I'd even chance a modest bet with him that that's exactly the way it will come, when and if it does.

Much of the tax problem was created by government, national, state and local, wheedling party votes by giving voters anything they wanted and kidding them that it cost them nothing.

NEXT TO TRYING to buy world friendship with the taxpayers' money, the tax burden has largely been created by government giving people handouts and services, even luxurious, that they once earned for themselves. And claiming it something for nothing.

Now the people are beginning to learn that all that they have they must pay for in taxes, plus the high cost of clumsy government administration of their funds.

It is surprising indeed for any politically beholden tax authority to expect that the birds who created the mess to win votes will ignore 30 million grumbling voters when they have any gravy to pass around.

LITTLE MAN, you asked for it, and you're all the time asking for more. When will you learn that you pay for it all and that "federal aid" and "state aid" come right out of your own pocket, with something like 40 per cent added to pay for waste and the horde of officeholders who manipulate your money?

We get what we vote for. When we vote for an end to government waste and world financing, we'll get it. Not before. Election day majorities are controlled by the voters who are allowed $1.70 a day, and don't like it.

Right now New Yorkers are asked to approve a four-million-dollar constitutional convention; $7,500 a head and expenses for politically favored delegates assembled for an unnecessary job. It's just a sample of money that the little man can save for himself through his vote.

Three Get Honorary Degrees From Hobart

GENEVA (AP)—A bishop of the Episcopal Church, a manufacturer and a Chicago clergyman have received honorary degrees from Hobart College.

The Rt. Rev. Stephen F. Bayne Jr., bishop of the diocese of Olympia, Wash., received a doctors of letters degree. William B. Given Jr., chairman of the board of the American Brake Shoe Co. and president of the Episcopal Church Foundation, received a doctor of humanities degree. The Rev. Cuthbert Pratt, rector of St. Chrysotom's Church, Chicago, received a degree of doctor of sacred theology.

The degrees were awarded Saturday at a two-day convocation sponsored by the colleges to discuss the Christian doctrines of the creation and of monotheism.

Democrat Holds Edge In Buffalo Vote Check

BUFFALO (AP) — With the canvass of votes almost complete, Frank A. Sedita, a Democrat, today held an unofficial 68-vote margin over Republican Chester Kowal in this city's closest mayoral race in history.

Election board officials completed checking the voting machines Saturday. About half the absentee and military ballots were canvassed yesterday.

They said they would probably complete the canvass tonight.

Sedita picked up seven votes unofficially in the canvass so far. He led 72,304 to 72,243 on election night.

A prosperous farmer sent his son to New York to begin life as a clerk. After his son had been in the metropolis for six months, the farmer wrote the merchant to ascertain how he was getting along and where he spent his nights. In due time the merchant sent a reply to the farmer which read:

"Your son sleeps in the store in the daytime. I don't know where he spends his nights."

Retest Asked

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An elderly motorist was stopped by Traffic Officer D. L. Weber for driving down the middle of a one-way street the wrong way. Weber's report said he asked the man if he could read a "one-way" sign on the next corner and the man answered: "Sure, it says 'wait.'" The officer recommended a new driver's license test.

U. S. Very Weak In Start on Its Missile Program

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Truman and Eisenhower administrations both fell asleep. They were shocked awake by a war and a Sputnik.

It is not clear whether President Truman every fully understood — or that President Eisenhower does now — the threat from Russian progress in missiles, satellites and science.

The Russians have outstripped this country in satellites, probably in intercontinental missiles, and in emphasis on training scientists and engineers. Why?

No one has pointed the finger more sharply than Wernher Von Braun.

As a German he helped develop the Nazis' V2 rocket against Britain in World War II. Now, as an American citizen, he is one of this country's top missile experts. He says:

This country had no ballistic missiles program worth mentioning between 1945 and 1951, or until one year after the Korean War had startled this country into realization of Russia's military intentions.

But Von Braun indirectly also blames the Eisenhower administration for the present lag, by saying we did not work hard enough on missiles "during the first 6 to 10 years" after World War II.

That puts the date—when this country began to push its missile program hardest—at 1955, or two years after Eisenhower took office.

Those were 10 years in which the Russians, judging from the results now appearing, laid the groundwork for their missile and satellite development.

Years from now it may seem unbelievable that Eisenhower could say—as he did in his Thursday night broadcast—that until now he had been getting top scientific advice informally instead of having it organized.

Now he's setting out to organize it by appointing President James R. Killian of Massachusetts Institute of Technology as his special assistant to coordinate an American scientific defense effort.

Eisenhower, who appeared very calm over the first Russian Sputnik, took this action after the second Sputnik went up, a month later. But just how much Killian's appointment means remains to be seen.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Can you think of a more difficult television assignment than re-creating the story of American life between 1900 and 1917 from films made in those by-gone years?

It's been done, however—and a fascinating hour of TV entertainment it is to one who has seen it in advance. The public will have the same opportunity on Nov. 21 at 10 p. m., when "Project 20" presents "The Innocent Years" on NBC-TV.

Extraordinary Films

"At first, to find the film sounded like that proverbial blank wall detectives run into on murder cases," says Daniel Jones, chief film researcher for the "Project 20" staff under Henry Salomon.

But then, as the film sleuths began tracking their quarry, things began to happen. They turned up extraordinary films of President McKinley's funeral, of Mark Twain at home, of immigrants arriving at Ellis Island. Thanks to their discoveries, you will see Coney Island and horse-drawn fire engines racing to a fire, Teddy Roosevelt and President Taft.

A wealth of rare, old film material totalled 18 hours when assembled. The 18 hours were cut to three hours—still two hours too much for the final program. "Cutting that final two hours was like cutting off your arm," Jones said. "So much wonderful material that there simply wasn't time to use."

As he worked with the film, Jones began to feel he was living back in that age. And he discovered, from studying the film, one of its significant and interesting characteristics.

Vigorous Movements

"The energy of the people in those days was extraordinary," he says. "It's there on film. Not just because the film moved faster in that period. You can slow it down and still see the vigorous movements of people, the vitality and energy. It's something you can't read in books or see in photographs. . . .

"The excitement at parades, the way a working man swung his dinner pail and was proud of it, the way the rich displayed their wealth and were proud of it. . . ."

Indeed the age is there — and well worth seeing on television.

Grand Masonic Head to Visit At Rondout Unit

FREDERICK H. STALL

Officers and members of Rondout Commandery will be visited Wednesday evening at Masonic Temple, by Frederick H. Stall of Croton, N. Y., grand standard bearer of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, State of New York. The session will be at 8 o'clock.

Grand Standard Bearer Stall is a past commander of Damascus Commandery No. 58, of Brooklyn. He is a member of many Masonic bodies, both in the New York and Scottish Rites of New York. Having presided in all four New York Rite Bodies, he holds membership in the York Cross of Honour.

Holds Life Membership

He is also a member of Kismet Shrine Temple, AAO, NMS, of Brooklyn; Royal Order of Scotland; and Knight Masons of Ireland. He also holds a life membership in Templar Knights Commander's Association Fraternal Union of Annointed High Priests, and the Grand College of Masonic Rites. He is serving the Grand Commandery this year as zone officer of Zone Three, which covers five commanderies with jurisdiction in the eastern section of the State of New York.

Members of the following commanderies are especially invited by Commander Chester H. Bonesteel of Rondout Commandery to be present at the inspection of the commandery: Hudson River No. 35, Newburgh; Poughkeepsie Commandery No. 43, of Poughkeepsie; Delaware Commandery No. 44, of Port Jervis; Cyprus Commandery No. 67, of Middletown and Rockland Commandery No. 75, of Haverstraw. An interesting program has been arranged.

Council officers of Rondout Commandery are: Bonesteel, commander; Philip E. Kearney, generalissimo; George E. Radcliff, captain of the guard and Arthur J. C. Hahn, prelate.

GOP Leaders Will Back Legislation On Insurance Plan

ALBANY (AP) — The Republican leaders of the GOP controlled Legislature say they will support legislation to require that health insurance policies provide for continued protection of ill persons.

The legislation would require insurance companies to write automatically renewable individual contracts that would restrict the right of cancellation "to specific cases of abuse," the legislators said.

Some companies now offer noncancellable individual policies but the general practice is to write one-year policies that may be cancelled by the company for any reason, at its option, Heck and Mahoney reported.

The legislation also would require that group policyholders and children covered by family policies be granted the right to convert the policies to other coverage in the event of changed circumstances.

Heck and Mahoney, in a joint statement, said the proposals were based on studies by the Joint Legislative Committee on Health Insurance plans, which is headed by Republican Sen. George R. Metcalf of Auburn.

"The threat of possible cancellation of policy benefits if the policyholder's health deteriorates has caused anxiety and apprehension on the part of many individuals who fear their inability to stand the financial strain caused by illness," Heck and Mahoney said.

More than 14 million New Yorkers carried some form of hospital, medical or surgical insurance, the leaders said.

Heck and Mahoney said nonprofit, mutual and commercial health insurance carriers in the state had cooperated toward making the proposed changes possible.

"Over the past several years," they said, "these organizations have quietly experimented with a course of action under which the number of cancellations for reasons of health steadily decreased. . .on the basis of their experience, the industry should now be ready for this important move."

Missile Expert Says Reds 'All Out' for Space Lead

International Copyright, 1957
By The Associated Press

One of the world's top missile experts says the Russians have embarked upon an "all-out effort. . .to establish themselves as masters of the space around us."

The real threat to free-world security lies in that concept and not in the specific tools that the Soviets are developing to gain that end, said Dr. Werner Von Braun in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

He holds that the Soviet gains can be neutralized only by the immediate development of a "well-planned, determined U. S. space flight program. . ."

Missile Pioneer

Von Braun is a pioneer in development of modern missiles. He was in charge of the program under which Germany developed the V2 rocket that battered London in the closing days of World War II.

Von Braun now is director of the development operations division of the Army's Redstone Arsenal. He has been in charge of Army research that led to the Jupiter-C missile, designated last week to carry the first American satellite into space.

It will not be the first, man-made earth satellite. That was sent into space last month by Russia.

Von Braun's Views

Since that time, many Americans have raised many questions about their country's position in the satellite field.

The Associated Press put many of those questions to Von Braun. These are his views:

"Even with no holds barred. . . it (will) be well over five years before we could catch up with the Soviets again, because they are not likely to sit idly by in the meantime.

". . .While adequate funds are available for the clearly defined missile weapons systems, there is never enough to 'advance the art.' . . .we don't have a real powerful rocket engine today simply because none of our present crash missile programs needs it. But, in order to beat the Russians in the race for outer space, we absolutely need it and the development of such an engine requires several years.

Suggested Program

". . .In the ballistic missile field the United States, about two years ago, embarked into an all-out crash program which will be difficult to substantially accelerate beyond its present pace. In the satellite field, we need a well-planned, long range national spaceflight program which makes maximum use of rocket hardware (propulsion systems, guidance systems and airframes) emerging from our ballistic missile programs.

"This program must be backed up by a firm budget which permits its steady prosecution over a period of several years. Even with no holds barred, I think it would still be well over five years before we could catch up with the Soviets again, because they are not likely to idly sit by in the meantime."

Of training programs for scientists in Russia and the United States:

Opportunity Lacking

"I believe that the professional quality of a young American physicist or engineer, fresh from the university, is at least as high as that of his Russian counterpart. But we do not provide sufficient opportunity for these young scientists and engineers to accrue a sufficient number of consecutive years in missile development to adequately enhance their practical experience."

"The Sputniks will give Russia's science education program an additional, most powerful boost. I can only hope that it will give the United States' science education program an even greater boost, because we need such a boost badly.

"And I also hope it will enhance the recognition of science and scientists in the eyes of the U. S. public. Unless we manage to make careers in the sciences more attractive to the young generation, we cannot hope to win the long range struggle with the Soviets for scientific and technological superiority."

Crash Program

As to whether a crash program would help overcome Russia's lead:

"In the missile field . . . we have practically all the facilities we can intelligently use. Several projects are handled by several teams, each of which is in a different geographical location. Any attempt to dislocate or combine these teams must necessarily lead to immediate interruption of the work, with resultant delays."

About more money: "I believe that, by and large, our five key ballistic missile programs (Jupiter, Thor, Polaris, Atlas and Titan) could not be speeded up appreciably by increases in funds. . .

"This statement does not apply to many badly neglected fringe areas of our ballistic missile and satellite programs. First and foremost, there is a crying need for more money for basic and applied research in these areas."

Why U. S. Trails

On why the U. S. trails Russia: "There was no ballistic missile development program in the United States between 1945 and 1951 because there was no obvious need for it, no interest for it, and no money for it. And it will be hard to catch up now on those lost six years."

Von Braun worked on U. S. missile research from 1945 on. He and 400 colleagues had fled to Bavaria to escape Russian capture and had given themselves up to American forces. He now heads 130 former German missile scientists at the Redstone Arsenal.

Moon in Three Years

Von Braun said he thought it would be possible for the United States to launch a satellite with the military rocket power now available, but that it would be two to three years before a U. S. missile would hit the moon.

Speculating further, he said it would be four to five years before there was a U. S. manned flight to an orbit in space and back to earth again. Construction of a manned space station, he said, would be tackled after manned orbital flight became routine.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON
THE CONSTITUTION

If lost, what have we left?

Some Republicans moan because Congress didn't go along with the President's entire program. They should take a look into Constitutional law instead of claiming that legislation should be dictated by the Executive branch and rubber-stamped by the Legislative branch. This was how Hitler and Mussolini did it.

MR. HUTTON

Well, if that is to be the system, why have a Congress at all? Government by executive decree is much simpler! Let's bury the Bill of Rights and concentrate all political power in the President and the Warren Supreme Court. Those who want our President to perform like a commissar or fuehrer don't understand either the Constitution or Mr. Eisenhower's views.

The purpose of the Constitution is to define the authority of the Legislative, Executive and Judicial branches of the Federal Government, and the separate functions of the Federal and State Governments. Constitutionally, the Legislative branch may not usurp powers belonging to the President, and he may not invade the Legislative rights of the Congress.

The Supreme Court may interpret the laws under the Constitution but may not take over the President's job to enforce the law, or Congress' job to make the laws.

After 24 years of "must" legislation by rubber-stamp Congresses, it is encouraging to see Congress asserting its Constitutional powers again, though it did not do everything some of us wanted.

Neighbor, a lot of things can wait, as long as the Constitution stands!

Hurok's Principles

NEW YORK (AP)—Sol Hurok, one of the busiest concert and stage impresarios, lists three key principles of show business in the trade magazine Variety. They are: "There are no bad acoustics for good artists." "If the public doesn't want to come to something, you can't stop them." "If you give a pass to someone important, be sure it's a good show, or he'll want his money back."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received an interesting picture of the laying of a wreath on Gov. Clinton's grave in old Dutch Church Yard Sept. 10, 1927.

I see it was taken by the Pennington Studios. There is a large group of people and State Troopers and many flags. The picture was taken from the Main Street side from an upper story building across the street so that the people's faces cannot be recognized even those standing around the monument. Perhaps some one who had taken part in this event remembers the details.

The same reader also sent a store envelope from L. B. Van Wagenen Co. on which is printed "The Store that sells Wooltex. Dry goods, carpets, cloaks, suits, etc., 311-313 Wall St., Kingston, N. Y. The Home of "White" sewing machine." There is no name of sender of my package, so please accept my thanks at this time.

Sometime ago I mentioned in this column how a little girl from Kingston presented flowers to President Grant at a large summer hotel in the Catskills. Some time later it was published, a lady called me and said she was the little girl, at that time visiting the hotel and being the smallest and youngest, the honor was given to her.

A short time ago there was mention here that during the Hudson-Fulton celebration of 1909, a girl student of the local academy won a prize for writing a very fine article on Fulton's life. She was Dr. Banker's daughter.

The column was brought to the attention of this lady by her many friends. One friend even found a local newspaper with entire article she wrote at the time and presented to her. In the many years that passed since the celebration she did not have one copy of her article as it was reprinted in the newspaper.

She phoned me the other day to tell me about it. I asked her if she would copy it for me, also asked her what she thought of it now. She said it seemed much longer than she remembered it. She realized now that she did much research and work on it. Then she also told me, that there was a Lincoln contest years ago, and out of 250 winners all over the nation she was one of them.

I asked her if she kept up with her hobby of writing and history, but I guess like all the rest of us she is occupied with the routine of daily living which keeps her away from her books and typewriter unless for work she must do.

Talent is such a precious gift but unless one can make some bread and butter with it, one cannot have time for it. It is sad indeed that it is not encouraged enough in high school.

In my time, it was sports, sports and school spirit. If you throw a ball in any given direction such as a basket or wherever it was necessary to win scores for your team. You were it.

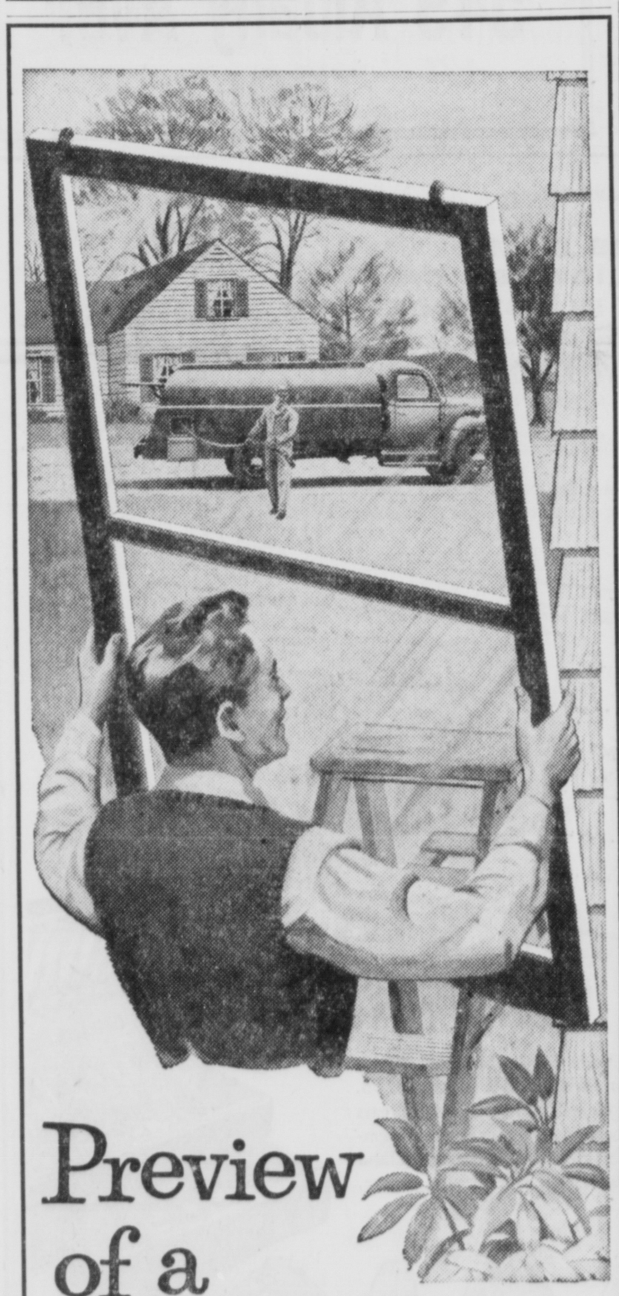

Talent, originality were frowned up. You had to be part of a herd to get by, unless the talent could be useful for school projects like sport show-cards, etc.

I was fortunate to have Mrs. Elmendorf Partlan and Miss Noone as English teachers whose encouragement I still remember to this day. If it was not for them I am afraid I would have hated opening a book once I graduated.

Freeman Is Informed Of Lonely Existence For Accident Victim

In a letter received today by The Freeman, the lonely plight of a 22-year-old tragic accident victim was revealed.

Paralyzed in an accident riding a toboggan in 1956, Robert Crocat of Lake Katrine, who is now at Haverstraw Rehabilitation Hospital, finds his only visitor is his mother, Mrs. Stanley Zaborski.

Mrs. Zaborski, who is without a car, faithfully takes a bus to New York City each week and then transfers to another bus which takes her back up to Haverstraw, since this is apparently the only way it is possible for her to get to the hospital. She reports that her son is now able to use a metal hand in writing, can type, turn pages, smoke cigarettes and handle small objects such as reading and writing material.

She also reports, however, that he receives no cards or letters of encouragement and urges that his friends write to him.

Prior to his accident, Mr. Crocat was an employe of Homeseekers Savings and Loan Association.

State DAR Chairman Visits Local Chapter

Mrs. Robert B. Bloom, State Chairman of Community Services for the Daughters of the American Revolution, was the guest speaker at a meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, on Thursday, Nov. 7 at the Chapter House.

Mrs. Bloom also addressed the Evening Group.

As Mrs. Bloom pointed out, community services is a comparatively new DAR committee but that members are already working on it.

Speaking of the work of her committee, Mrs. Bloom stated that its scope embraced any voluntary humanitarian services performed by DAR members in their respective local communities.

"Too long," said Mrs. Bloom, "people have considered us an organization of ancestor worshippers; whereas the truth is that the DAR is vitally interested in the present and future of our country as well as in our past."

"As evidence of such interest, she urged the support of local Chapter and its members for children's camps, clubs and other worthwhile activities for children in an effort to combat juvenile delinquency. She also urged members to be alert to the dangers of obscene publications and to make every effort to have any such publications removed from sale wherever found.

Citizens' Committee

Mrs. Herbert DeKay, chairman of the Good Citizens Committee, reported that contestants for the Good Citizenship Award will be chosen by teachers and students at Kingston High School, New Paltz, Wallkill, Highland, Onteora. Basis of selection will be on scholarship, leadership, loyalty and integrity.

During the evening business session, at which Miss B. Isabel Herdman, chairman of the Evening Group, presided, it was announced that a card party would be held on Monday, Nov. 18 for the benefit of the Tamassee child, sponsored by Wiltwyck Chapter. Members were also reminded that Christmas gifts for the Tamassee child, Julia Bradley, should be left with Mrs. Hollis Burhans before November 20, since early mailing of the gifts is necessary.

Appeal Made

Miss Hazel Bloom, chairman of the American Indians and Conservation Committee, asked members of both groups for donations of good used toys and children's books, and also clothing for babies and young children, in order that a Christmas box might be sent to the Onondaga Indian Reservation at Nedrow, N. Y.

Miss Virginia Curtis reported that she, Miss Herdman and Mrs. Walter McClure Jr., had been guests the previous evening of the DAR Evening Group in Poughkeepsie, at which meeting the guest speaker was Mrs. Lyle J. Howland, national chairman of approved schools. Mrs. Howland had just returned from a tour of the schools which are supported wholly or in part by the National Society, DAR and had a fine collection of color slides to show to the members of the Poughkeepsie group and their guests.

A musical program arranged by Mrs. John Haulenbeek, was given by a Y-Teen Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Elmer Rylance at the meeting of the Wiltwyck Chapter.

For the afternoon meeting Mrs. Maynard Mizel, past regent, poured. Mrs. Herman Schwenk and Mrs. William Ochs were hostesses.

Hostesses for the social hour which concluded the evening program were Mrs. Stuart S. Randall and Mrs. Elmer P. Resseguie.

The Purple Heart was established by Gen. George Washington in 1782. It is the decoration for men wounded in action.

DAR OFFICERS MEET—Attending the monthly meeting of Daughters of the American Revolution, Wiltwyck Chapter, held recently at the Chapter House were (l-r) Mrs. Walter T. Tremper, program chairman; Mrs. Clair Shaeffer, regent; Mrs. Robert B. Bloom, state chairman of Community Service; Miss Isabel Herdman, chairman of Evening Group; Mrs. Dale Swartzmiller, recording secretary. (Freeman photo).

Local Delegates to Attend Scout Convention In Philadelphia; Program Plans Announced

Mrs. Donovan F. Buehring of Kingston, president of Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, Inc., and Mrs. Calvin Wygant Sr. of Marlboro, Council vice president, will represent the local Council officially at the 34th Convention of the National Council of Girl Scouts to be held at Convention Hall, Philadelphia, November 11-15.

The official delegates elected by the Council automatically become members of the Girl Scout National Council. They are empowered to vote on national issues at the Convention, elect Girl Scout officers, pass on organization's budget, and consider nation-wide Girl Scout activities to be implemented during the next three years.

The 34th National Convention at Philadelphia will mark the beginning of the three-year cycle of meetings of extreme importance to all Councils. The plan was adopted at the San Francisco Convention in 1956. Formerly, national conventions were held bi-annually. Following the Philadelphia convention, national conventions will be scheduled every three years with the Regional Conference and the President's Meeting taking place on the off-years.

The National Girl Scout Convention is attended by Adult Scouts from the entire United States, its territories and possessions, as well as visitors from organizations within the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts.

The theme of the National Convention will be "You Can Count on Her—Can She Count on You?"

Mrs. Roy F. Layton, National Council president, will pay tribute to all Girl Scouts in her opening address. Mrs. Layton will challenge the delegates with the question, "Can She Count on You?"

Joseph N. Welch, who was narrator of the story of the Constitution during a recent series of "Omnibus" television programs, will bring an inspirational message to the thousands of delegates assembled at the Tuesday morning session. His presentation of the Constitution as a living, human document will precede the consideration of constitutional changes proposed for approval at this national convention.

Other broad issues or studies to be presented at the convention will include: Council Coverage (a progress report of a growing national movement toward larger and more effective Councils); the Adolescent Girl Study with Dr. Stephen B. Withey, Program Director, Survey Research Center, University of Michigan, presenting the method and findings of the study; the Gallup Survey (an evaluation of Girl Scouting based upon public opinion) presented by Dr. George Gallup, noted pioneer pollster; Local Financing; and a Report of the World Conference held recently in Brazil by Dame Leslie Whately, a delegate to the World Conference.

Home Extension Service News

Annual Dinner

Dan Smiley of Lake Mohonk will be the featured speaker at the annual dinner and meeting of the Ulster County Extension Service Association to be held at 7 p. m. Thursday evening, November 14 at the New Hurley Reformed Church at New Hurley. Mr. Smiley's topic is Our Animal Neighbors.

The business of the evening will include election of Association officers and members of the agricultural, home demonstration and 4-H Club department executive committee members.

Tickets should be secured from one of the offices of the Association as soon as possible.

Nutritionist to Speak

Miss Elizabeth Agnew, nutritionist with the New York State Department of Health will discuss Minerals and Their Importance in Daily Meals at the Home Demonstration Department of the Ulster County Extension Service, 220 Wall Street, on Monday, Nov. 18 at 1:30 p. m. and again at 8 p. m.

With the development of nutrition research, more is known about the contribution of minerals to the health of persons of all ages. Miss Agnew will explain how the informed homemaker can plan meals to supply sufficient amounts of these important nutrients for her family.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

When Invited to a Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I along with another couple were invited to dinner in a restaurant as the guests of friends of ours. I ordered a steak and told the waiter I wanted it medium rare. When I cut into the steak, I found it to be well done. I called the waiter over and asked him please to take it back as it was not what I ordered. My husband thinks that I was very rude to our hosts by doing this and that I should have eaten it and said nothing. I can't see how I was rude to our hosts as it certainly wasn't their fault that the waiter made a mistake, and I am sure they wouldn't want me to eat something that I didn't enjoy. I would very much like to have your opinion on this matter.

Answer: You as a guest should not have complained directly to the waiter. If your host did not notice that your steak was overcooked and failed to ask you if you wanted it changed you should have eaten it.

In Honor of the Newly Married Couple

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter and her husband were recently married at a private ceremony. Since relatives and friends have not met her husband I would like to give an afternoon reception in their honor. Most likely guests will be arriving at different times since the time for the reception is set from three to five o'clock. Should there be a receiving line, and if so, who stands in it?

Answer: Yes, there should be a receiving line. You, as hostess, stand first at the door of entrance, your daughter stands next, and her husband next to her. Your daughter introduces each arriving guest to her husband.

The First Call

Dear Mrs. Post: A young woman in our town recently became engaged to a man who lives in another part of the state. Her parents went to visit his parents after the engagement was announced. I always thought that the man's parents were supposed to call first on the girl's family and welcome her into the family. Isn't this incorrect?

Answer: You are right, but if her parents were on a trip and in or near the town in which his parents live there was nothing incorrect in their making the first call.

Nominations for officers will take place.

Entertainment for the evening will include Anna May Trumpait, who will speak about the trip she recently made to Mexico with the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Charles Burger and Mrs. Fred Meeker.

Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Hubert Smith, president, has invited all members and their friends to attend.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. John Aiello of 15 Morgan Avenue, Poughkeepsie are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Mary Ann, born Saturday, Nov. 9 at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Aiello is the former Marie Autorino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Autorino, 146 East Chester Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Lown of 20 Golf Terrance are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Patricia Joy, born November 6 at Kingston Hospital. They also have a son and two daughters.

Child Is Injured By Car Following Cat in Driveway

Darwin Guillon, 2, of Lomontville was taken to Benedictine Hospital Sunday and treated for lacerations of the face and an injured knee after he had been struck by a car.

State police made an investigation and reported the lad was chasing a cat in the driveway when Theodore Stank, 27, RD 3, Kingston, started his car in the driveway. The lad ran into the side of the car. Stank felt a bump and in investigation found the boy had struck the side of the car, which was traveling at less than five miles an hour. The accident happened about 1:30 p. m.

Play Well Received By Tillson Audience

More than 300 persons attended the performance of "January Thaw," a three-act comedy given for the benefit of the Tillson Parent-Teachers Association by the Spotlighters at the school, Saturday, Nov. 9. The play, written by William Roos, was produced by special arrangement with the Dramatic Publishing Company.

The cast included Nathaniel Phillips, Betty Phillips, Elaine Warren, Barbara DeWitt, Hilda Messner, Florence Schulz, Thomas DePuy, Robert Messner, Helen Sutherland, Frank Chyzik, Walter Born, Walter Warren, Robert Fox and John Chyzik. Many of these were players in last year's play, "That's My Baby."

The play, a comedy, involved two families living in the same house, each family claiming ownership to the property. The resulting hilarious situations were well portrayed by the cast.

The play was directed by A. Darnowski of Woodstock, an honorary member of the Spotlighters and an experienced director of plays with other groups. Others in the group assisting in the play included Helen Segelken, George Segelken, Robert Ashcroft, Helen Aldridge, Eleanor DeWitt, Patricia Hopper, Ursula Woolsey, Elaine Hoffman and Eva Born.

During intermission refreshments were served by members of the P-TA. The committee in charge reported that the affair was considered very successful, and appreciation was expressed to all who contributed in any way.

There are 18 inhabited pueblos (villages) in New Mexico and four large reservations.

Onteora Beats Rondout Valley, 13-0, for UCAL Grid Crown

BIG GAINER—Onteora Central brilliant halfback Charlie Cange picks up valuable yardage in Saturday's UCAL title game with Rondout Valley. Cange scored the Indians first touchdown and was the top ground gainer of the day as his team won, 13-0, to capture the crown. Trailing Cange is teammate Norm Boggs (18) and Bill Mustion of Rondout. (Freeman photo)

Cange, Weiderspeil Score TDs for Victors

The first perfect record on the season among area schoolboy gridders is written in the history books today and belongs to Onteora Central School.

The Indians beat everyone to the punch Saturday by whipping Rondout Valley Central, 13-0, and capturing the Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) championship on their own battlefield at Boiceville.

Coach Ed Witko's warriors blended an awesome ground attack with murderous line play to take the showdown battle which was for all the marbles. By winning, Onteora earned the honor of becoming the first titleholder of the newly organized grid circuit, and wound up the year with a 6-0 mark.

The estimated 700 fans who braved the cold, raw afternoon were treated to an old fashioned rock'em, sock'em affair. An all night rain Friday left the field muddy and slippery and kept the teams on the ground.

Both Onteora touchdowns came after long sustained drives and were scored by the two standouts of the game, backs Charlie Cange and Bruce Weiderspeil. Cange a mercury-footed halfback, swept end near the close of the first half.

The two Onteora touchdowns came after long sustained drives and were scored by the two standouts of the game, backs Charlie Cange and Bruce Weiderspeil. Cange, a mercury-footed halfback, swept end for seven yards near the close of the first half for the first score. The run capped a 90-yard drive exclusively on the ground in 19 plays.

The surge consumed most of the time in the second period and was led by Cange, Weiderspeil and Tom McCrosson who took turns rushing. The only interruption was a 15 yard clipping penalty which set the Indians back to the RV 23. But two smashes by Weiderspeil and another by McCrosson offset the penalty and kept Onteora in business. Cange outsped tacklers for the tally. Weiderspeil tried an end run after a fake kick for the extra point but was stopped short.

Scores from 4

On the fourth play of the final period, Weiderspeil bulled across from the 4 to close out the scoring. A fumble by fullback Bill Smith near the end of the third period gave the homesters a break and they cashed in on it. Smith bobbled the ball on the OCS 47 and from there the victors launched their drive which ate up 14 plays. Again it was Cange and Weiderspeil who shared the heavy ground work with the former getting off the longest sprint of the thrust, 9 yards. Konrad King booted the PAT.

Rondout, which also carried a spotless 5-0 mark into the fray, just couldn't get untracked no how. Smith was the whole show for the Kerhonkson gridders, but got little or no support from his playmates.

Smith exploded on the longest run of the game. He shook loose for 48 yards down the right sidelines to the Onteora 26 about a minute before halftime. End Bob Schulman overtook Smith and shoved him out of bounds to save the bacon. A pass interference penalty shoved the ball to the 10 moments later but Rondout could only get off one more play before the half ended.

The move to the 10 was the deepest penetration for Chick Meehan's forces. They spent most of the game around midfield or trying to get out of their own zone.

6 Fumbles

The sloppy underfooting and slippery ball caused plenty of fumbles. Onteora lost the ball four times and Rondout twice but only the one by Smith which preceded Weiderspeil's score proved damaging.

Onteora entire line played bang-up ball and kept Rondout off balance. They were especially effective rushing the passer which is proven by the statistics which show that the visitors completed only two aerials.

Smith, who had scored 12 TDs going into the game, was throttled for the first time this season. Weiderspeil was chiefly responsible for halting the hard-running senior as he time and again came up from his linebacker spot for tackles. Smallish Dick Craig also shone in the role as a linebacker.

Counting two victories at the end of last season, Onteora now boasts a modest eight-game string. The Indians are in choice company. Only Kingston High, with 14 straight, possesses a better record in the Hudson Valley.

Syracuse's Bowl Bid Shattered By Holy Cross

By The Associated Press

Syracuse, all dreams of a post-season football bowl bid evaporated, will try to vent its frustration Saturday in its traditional grudge match against Colgate.

It will be the final home game for the Orange, whose hopes of a bowl-worthy record were upset, 20-19, by visiting Holy Cross last Saturday. Colgate crushed Bucknell, 32-0, at Hamilton.

Cornell goes to Dartmouth with the Bid Red's prestige in the Ivy League heightened by a 13-6 victory over Brown in the third of the Upstate Big Three home games.

On Tuesday, Rensselaer Polytechnic will entertain Union in another traditional game, postponed earlier in the season because of flu. Union downed Kings Point 28-12 Saturday, while RPI lost to Coast Guard 27-20.

Hobart Rolls On

Hobart will attempt to finish what could be Upstate's only perfect season when it invades Upsala after defeating Hamilton 8-2.

Other Upstate contests slated for Saturday are Hamilton at Union, Lehigh at Buffalo, and Washington and Jefferson at Rochester.

At Syracuse, Crusader Tom Greene lived up to his reputation as a passing threat, accounting for two touchdowns and kicking the decisive extra point. Holy Cross made another score when they recovered a fumble by Syracuse quarterback Chuck Zimmerman in the Orange end zone.

The Orange's 24-21 upset of Pitt the week before had revived hopes for a bowl invitation. Now the Syracuse record is an unspectacular 4-2-1.

The Colgate line kept Bucknell from penetrating past the host's 20-yard line.

Quarterback Ray Harding completed one 27-yard pass and another 52-yard toss to Al Jamison for two Colgate tallies.

Strong Ground Game

The Raiders now have three triumphs to four losses.

At Cornell, quarterback Tom Skypeck masterminded a strong ground attack against Brown. Both Big Red scores came in the third period, one after a 47-yard march and the other on a line buck after Brown lost possession deep in its own territory.

It was the last home game for Cornell, which has won three and lost four.

Other results: Cortland Teachers 20, Buffalo 0; Brockport Teachers 2, Alfred 0; Tufts 47, Rochester 13.

Accord Quint Defeats T&T In B League

Accord squared its YMCA "B" League record at three wins and three losses with a 42-27 decision over Tank & Tummie, Saturday on the Y boards. Minute Car Wash leads the league with a 7-0 record.

The winners dominated the contest after trailing 13-12 in the first quarter. Gorman dunked 21 points for Accord. Maines paced T&T with nine.

BUCKIN BILL—Fullback Bill Smith churns out some yardage as an unidentified Onteora tackler tries in vain to stop him. Smith was the whole show for Rondout but his heroics were not enough as the Kerhongson gridders went down to their first setback of the season. End Bob Schulman of the Indians trails the play. ## Sooners, Duke, Aggies Buckeyes Bid for Bowls

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The college football season reaches its most frenzied pitch this Saturday when no fewer than four teams spread across the nation can wrap up coveted New Year's Day bowl bids.

Texas A&M, Ohio State, Duke and Oregon all could join Oklahoma, which already has cemented its berth in the Orange Bowl and "relaxes" against Notre Dame before a nationwide television audience.

The rough, tough Sooners, who once more took on the appearance of a smooth-functioning machine in their 39-14 victory over Missouri last Saturday, will be heavily favored against the Irish. Notre Dame, showing the effects of a murderous schedule, dropped a 34-6 decision to Michigan State.

Still, Oklahoma won't have to be persuaded to put out against Terry Brennan's lads. For one thing, the Sooners are eager to extend their 47-game winning streak. For another, Notre Dame was the last team to beat them — in the opener of the '53 campaign.

As for the bowl situation, here is how it shapes up:

ROSE —Ohio State is the favorite to get the Big 10's nomination. The Buckeyes and defending champion Iowa go at it this week, and an Ohio State victory would end it. Iowa is ineligible. Michigan State is the only other team with a chance. The Spartans have to beat Minnesota Saturday, and hope Ohio State loses its last two games.

On the other end, Oregon, despite a staggering 13-6 defeat at the hands of Washington last week, still is in the most favorable position to be nominated by the Pacific Coast Conference. The Ducks need only one more victory to clinch a tie for the championship, and their opponent this week, Southern California, has won just one game.

Stanford Has Chance

Stanford is the only other possibility, and should the Indians tie Oregon for the crown, the Ducks would get it. A PCC rule says that in the event of a deadlock the team last in the Rose Bowl would step aside. That would be Stanford. Oregon hasn't been in a Rose Bowl game since 1920.

COTTON Texas A&M, the No. 1 team in the land in the weekly Associated Press poll, has only Rice standing in its way as it marches toward its second Southwest Conference title and the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

The Aggies have a winning streak of 14 over a two-year period and Rice, although it scored a 13-7 upset over Arkansas Saturday, doesn't appear ready to cope with Bear Bryant's men.

The second team in the Cotton Bowl usually is the second-place outfit in the Southeastern Conference. Last year, however, Syracuse was plucked.

SUGAR — The promoters of this one have a problem that is going to take some solving. The Southeastern Conference champion traditionally acts as host. But Auburn, which is rolling along in first place and undefeated is ineligible for post-season play this year.

If Mississippi can get by Tennessee this week, Ol' Miss probably will cement second place and wind up in the Sugar Bowl, with either Tennessee or Vanderbilt whichever wins their game Nov. 30 — going to the Cotton Bowl.

ORANGE — Oklahoma already has one spot taken care of. The Atlantic Coast Conference supplies the other outfit, and all Duke has to do to win the title is beat either Clemson this week or North Carolina next week. The Blue Devils tied Navy 6-6 last week.

North Carolina State, which currently is tied with Duke for the AAC lead, is, like Auburn in the bad graces of the NCAA and cannot play in post-season games.

Then, there is the case of Navy, the class of the East and just itching to get in a top bowl game. It's possible that if the Middies whip Army on Nov. 30 and the Cotton Bowl folks won't like the idea of having to reach down to the third team in the Southeastern Conference, the middies will wind up in Dallas New Year's day.

If that comes about, the Gator Bowl, the next in line, could pair, say, West Virginia of the Southern Conference with Tennessee, Mississippi or Vanderbilt, whichever shows the best credentials.

Old-Fashioned

Aggies' Iron Men Score Eighth Straight Victory

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)— Texas A&M, the nation's No. 1 team, sped through its eighth straight victory last week with 10 boys getting in 40 to 50 minutes apiece, as usual.

You have to be tough and with the stamina of a mule to wear the moleskins of Aggieland. Never more than 28 players get into a game and 13 of those do about 90 per cent of the playing.

This may be the thinnest squad, quantitively speaking, to ever lead the nation.

"Are the boys tired and weary?" Somebody asked Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant after the Aggies were "up" four weeks in a row for important Southwest Conference games.

"Tired?" snorted the coach. "They can't get tired with the little work we've been able to get in, in view of the bad weather, injuries and illness."

Subs Important

Bryant might have said something about how he works his substitutions like a game of chess, making them at the time when there can be no ill effects from the loss of strength.

He also might have mentioned that the Aggies are noted for their strong finishes. You can bat them all over the field for 50 minutes but they'll be taking the offensive and knocking you all over the field in the final 10. They seem tougher at the finish than at the start.

They're in mighty fine condition for boys who get to work so little. The fans call them "bear fearing players." What they mean is that the Aggies call on all their reserve strength when the going gets tough because they have pride — a pride that says they won't let down for their coach.

The 10 who usually play from 40 to 50 minutes each are ends Bobby Marks and John Tracey, tackles Charley Krueger and Ken Beck, center John Gilbert, guard Tommy Howard, quarterback Roddy Osborne, halfbacks John Crow and Loyd Taylor and fullback Dick Gay.

Guards Need Help

Only at guard are there numerous substitutions and it's because there are few experienced men at these posts. Eight boys have been used at the two positions. "We just have to sort of hide our guards," says Bryant.

Much of the hiding is done by Crow, Osborne and Gay with their great defensive play behind the line.

There are two more games on the schedule — Rice at Houston Saturday and Texas at College Station Thanksgiving Day. The Aggies won't get tired until those are out of the way. Then it'll just be a sort of relaxing tiredness.

Lumley Flashes Old Time Form

By The Associated Press

Veteran goalie Harry Lumley of the Buffalo Bisons turned back the hands of time in flashing his old form against the Cleveland Barons last night.

The 31-year-old net-minder posted a 3-0 shutout — his first of the season — as Buffalo moved into a fourth-place tie with Cleveland in the American Hockey League.

In other games, league-leading Hershey tied Springfield 4-4 and Providence and Rochester played a 2-2 deadlock. Both were overtime games.

Lumley failed to produce a shutout in 63 games with the Bisons last season. This was a far cry from his fine years in the NHL. With Detroit in 1947-48 he led the league in shutouts and he did the same with Toronto in 1952-53 and 1953-54.

Who Was That Graham Guy?

O'Connell's Aerials Spark Browns' Surge

Fires Two TD Passes In Win Over Steelers

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Press

Otto Graham? Who he?

The Cleveland Browns, who bristled with an aura of invincibility when Uncle Otto was lofting touchdown passes, were supposed to nosedive to the National Football League's so-so class when he made his second "retirement" permanent at the close of the 1955 season.

Last year, the experts were right as Coach Paul Brown's Huskies dipped into fourth place when Graham's replacements, George Ratterman and Babe Parilli, failed to get the club off the ground.

Toward the end of the year, a dejected Brown put out a call for available talent and Tommy O'Connell, former Illinois great, answered it.

It's been O'Connell in the quarterback slot ever since and he's beginning to make them forget the fabulous Otto.

O'Connell tossed two touchdown passes yesterday as the Browns maintained their hold on the Eastern Division lead with a 24-0 victory over Pittsburgh's Steelers.

This, coupled with San Francisco's 37-24 loss to the Los Angeles Rams, left the Browns with the best mark in the league, 6-1.

Despite their loss, the 49ers continued to pace the Western Conference with a 5-2 record, one hop ahead of Baltimore and Detroit at 4-3.

The Colts remained in contention with a 21-17 victory over Washington and the Lions dropped Philadelphia 27-16. In the East, the Giants (5-2) stayed right behind the Browns by defeating Chicago's Cardinals, 27-14.

In the other game on the full program, Chicago's Bears beat Green Bay, 21-14.

Groza's Toe Active

Lou Groza opened the Cleveland scoring with a 34-yard field goal, his eighth this season. Then O'Connell took over. He completed 7 of 11 passes for 156 yards and touchdowns to Ray Renfro and Preston Carpenter. Don Paul picked up a fumble and sped 89 yards for the final score. Rookie Jim Brown led the running game with 75 yards in 14 tries.

The Giants made good use of their veterans. Chuck Conerly, 36, passed for a pair of touchdowns and Ben Agajanian, 38, notched two field goals. Trailing 17-0 late in the third quarter, the Cards came back with Ollie Matson going over twice to cut the lead to 17-14. But Agajanian booted one and Frank Gifford went 24 yards for a six-pointer to put the game out of reach.

Hamilton Harriers Gain Upstate Title

BUFFALO (AP) — Hamilton College today holds the team title in the New York State Small College Cross-Country Championships.

Fred Best of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute covered the 4.9-mile course in Delaware Park in 26:01 Saturday to win individual honors.

The Hamilton team scored 51 points. The University of Buffalo was second with 65 and Alfred was third with 68. Seven teams competed.

Marion Ladewig Queen

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., has again been chosen bowling Queen of the Year by the Bowling Writers' Assn. Anita Cantaline of Detroit was runnerup with Marge Merrick of Detroit, Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia and Stephania Balogh of Cleveland ranked in that order.

Arlington Upset, 13-7

Dave Burdash scored in the last period as Highland High upset Arlington, 13-7, Saturday at New Paltz.

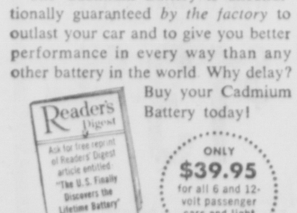

It was the Highlanders fourth straight DCSL victory and kept them atop the heap ahead of Wappingers Falls. Arlington stands at 2-2.

Ralph Penny tallied the other Highland TD on a 20-yard run.

Dave Harrand went 20 yards to paydirt to account for the Dutchess County Maroons' tally.

Buster Ferraro, Rose Schatzel, Rawding All Star Finalists

The Queen Edges Middletown Foe By 85-Pin Edge

Rose Schatzel of Kingston paced four qualifiers for the All Star women's eliminations with an 18-game total of 3197.

The other finalists are Mary Diana, Middletown, 3112; Dot Rawding, Kingston, 2988; Helen Sutton, Rosendale, 2972.

Evelyn Gross of Kingston (2908) and Mrs. Gertrude Hallenbeck, Catskill, (2883) failed to qualify for next weekend's finals.

Mrs. Schatzel racked up a six-game total of 1087 Sunday at Rhinebeck Center. Mrs. Diana fired 1025, Dot Rawding 980, Helen Sutton 974, Gross 926 and Hallenbeck 968.

The semi-final round is scheduled Saturday at 2 p. m. at Ellenville Recreation where the contestants bowl two games against each in head to head play. Finals are carded Sunday at 1 p. m. at the Riccardi alleys in Saugerties.

The Sunday results:

Rose Schatzel (Kingston) — 169, 183, 164, 224, 170, 224—1087—3197.

Mary Diana, Middletown — 188, 146, 158, 135, 232, 166—1025—3112.

Dot Rawding (Kingston) — 170, 189, 152, 178, 166, 123—980—2988.

Helen Sutton (Rosendale) — 166, 181, 144, 165, 156, 162—974—2972.

Evelyn Gross (Kingston) — 165, 154, 122, 211, 136, 138—926—2908.

Gertrude Hallenbeck (Catskill)—143, 139, 157, 180, 180, 169—968—2883.

Pro Football Attendance Hit New High

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pro football attendance reached an all-time high in the National Football League yesterday with an unofficial estimate for all six games of 312,131 persons.

This "undoubtedly" is an all-time high for the NFL, Commissioner Bert Bell said.

Another record also probably was set — paid attendance for a single game. The Los Angeles Rams-San Francisco '49ers game at Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles drew an estimated total crowd of 102,368.

The paid attendance probably won't hit the 100,000 mark, a spokesman said, because 7,500 boys were guests of the management.

But the final audit "will show a new paid attendance record for a professional football game," a spokesman said.

Bell agreed and added that paid attendance for all six games will be a record somewhere in the vicinity of 300,000.

BOWLING SCORES

Landmark Inn keglers of Florida, led by Sam Troup's 711 series, perpetrated a major upset in the Hudson Valley Saturday, with a 2-1 victory over Jones Dairy on the Bowlerama drives.

The visitors were outpinned, 3086-3006, but grabbed the first set, 998-995 and the second, 1062-944. The Dairymen rallied with 1147 to salvage the third game.

Troup amassed his big series with slams of 250, 245 and 216. Myron Myruski furnished 619 and Ed Cole hit 615.

Chris Gallo was top Jones keggler with 210-268-674. Jerry Oster hit 224-224-632, and John Ferraro anchored with 221-237-621.

Jewelers Beat Dairies

Phil Battaglia led with 203-217-617 and Herb Petersen added 222-614 to pace Saccoman's Jewelers to a 2-1 triumph over Prospect Dairies in an intracity duel. Charlie Manfro's 204-204-597 led Prospects. Saccoman's hit 2818—2762 for the losers.

Middletown Merchants had to yield the third game to The Five Merchants, 933-913, on the Middletown drives. Art Koeppel anchored the Middies with 218-215-611 and Joe Congolosi had 212-607. Larry Petersen posted 235-565 for the Merchants.

Johnson Jars NFA

Deke Johnson figured in all five of Poughkeepsie High's touchdowns as the Pioneers walloped Newburgh, 33-20, to nail down second place in the DUSO League, and finish the season with a 4-2 overall mark.

The flashy halfback scored three touchdowns and passed for two others as the Bridge City team posted their third DUSO win against one setback. Their only loop loss was to Kingston, 26-13.

Larry Levine passed 32 yards to Johnson for one score. Johnson ran 20 and 36 yards for his other tallies.

Joe Molinaro and Dick DePew caught TD aerials from Johnson. Molinaro's was good for 31 yards and DePew for 43.

Gordon Fox was a one-man wrecking crew for the Goldbacks who dropped their second straight DUSO game. The halfback scored all three TDs and kicked two extra points.

Joins Oster in Weekend Matches; Rhea Tops Field

Buster Ferraro fired a 1574 series Sunday at Dutchess Recreation Sunday to become the lone Kingston qualifier besides defending champion Jerry Oster in the Natioinal All Star bowling eliminations.

The seven finalists, who join Oster in action next weekend at Walden are:

Dick Rhea, Poughkeepsie, who led the 24-game qualifying round with 4782.

Bill McCance, Poughkeepsie, 4626.

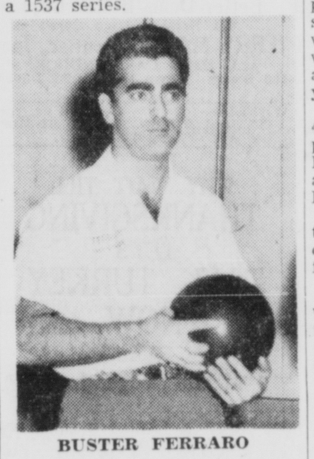

Tony Mack, Newburgh, 4617.

Phil Versace, Poughkeepsie, 4607.

Lou Viscounti, Newburgh, 4588.

Wayne Scott, Middletown, 4557.

A notable casualty was John Ferraro of Kingston, the 1955 finalist, who got off to a bad start. The Ace came back strongly Sunday, however, with a 1537 series.

BUSTER FERRARO

Rhea, the free-wheeling Poughkeepsie southpaw, flashed the steadiest bowling of the day Sunday with the only 1600 series, a 1621, with no game higher than 219 and six of eight games over the 200 mark.

Bill McCance, the 16-game leader, dipped to 1447 managed to hold second place by a ninepin margin over Tony Mack of Newburgh, who toppled 1483.

Scott Rallies

Phil Versace moved into the finals as expected with a 1544 slam and Visconti posted 1529. Wayne Scott of Middletown rallied from a mediocre 126 opener to blast 1441 for the last seven games, one of the hottest streaks of bowling in the entire tournament.

Ferraro bagged five two hundred scores and had a low of 169 to snatch the seventh position on a 1574 aggregate, second highest for the day.

The finalists must endure a gruelling sixteen game struggle next weekend, with eight games Saturday at 2 p. m., at Walden and eight more Sunday at 1 p. m.

The Sunday leaders:

Sawyers Wind Up 1-5

Wappingers Falls Rips Saugerties High, 44-6

Wappingers Falls scored in every period Saturday to rout Saugerties, 44-6, and remain undefeated at the Dutchess County field.

The game was the finale for the Sawyers and gave them a lacklustre 1-5 record for the season. After tripping Red Hook in the opener, Coach Bill Straub's crew dropped their next five.

John Snyder averted a shutout in the second period by sprinting 50 yards on an end run. That was the lone bright spot for the victims all afternoon.

Meantime, the powerful Fallsmen, who own a 4-0-1 mark, were frolicking to victory. Six different players shared in the touchdown-making which added up to seven.

Jack Biasotti, an All-County player last year, launched the scoring in the opening period, whirling 12 yards. Jim Dolsinger, who tallied two TDs, got into the act later in the period from 10 yards out.

Rich Longi, quarterback, whizzed 40 yards to paydirt in the second period and kicked the extra point. Dolsinger accounted for a PAT after Biasotti's TD to give the Fallsmen a 20-6 halftime margin.

Dolsinger dashed 60 yards in the third period for a fourth TD. The other three scores came in the final session.

Hawks Rebound In Hockey Loop

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Black Hawks, perennial cellar-dwellers of the National Hockey League, are making the other clubs sit up and take notice.

After a profitable weekend, Chicago holds down third place and is only four points behind the runnerup New York Rangers.

The Hawks whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 last night. On Saturday afternoon, before a national television audience, they blanked the Rangers 5-0. The Boston Bruins turned back the Detroit Red Wings 4-2 in last night's other game.

Neil Johnston Torrid Warrior

By The Associated Press

As long as Neil Johnston retains his scoring touch, the Philadelphia Warriors will continue to make their presence felt in National Basketball Assn. circles.

The lanky 6-8 center, in his seventh year in the league, found the range for 34 points as the Warriors outlasted the Cincinnati Royals 106-101 last night in the only game played. It was Cincinnati's fourth straight setback.

The Warriors, in second place in the Eastern Division, have won five of eight starts and are three games behind unbeaten Boston. The Royals, now 2-4, are 1½ games behind first-place St. Louis in the Western section.

In Saturday's lone game St. Louis turned back Philadelphia 105-100.

Jackson-Machen Bout Headlines The Fistic Week

Eddie Machen, unbeaten Redding, Calif., heavyweight will test his strength on Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson of New York in a Wednesday bout at San Francisco that could be important to Machen's title hopes.

A match with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson is Machen's goal and he hopes to improve on Patterson's showing against the Hurricane. Jackson went 12 rounds to lose a split decision to Patterson in their first match in 1956 but was stopped in 10 rounds of a title match, July 29.

Machen is No. 1, contender. Jackson is No. 5 in Ring Magazine, No. 6 in the National Boxing Association ratings.

The Hurricane hasn't been in action since the Patterson bout that sent him to the hospital. In 36 pro bouts, Jackson has a 29-6-1 record.

Machen, 25, has a 23-0 record with 15 knockouts.

ABC-TV will carry the bout.

Gene Fullmer returns to Madison Square Garden for the first time since he won the middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson to box Neal Rivers of Las Vegas, Nev. on the Friday show (NBC Radio-TV).

Of course, many things have happened to Fullmer since that January night. He lost the title when he ran into a Robinson left hook at Chicago, May 1. Robinson, in turn, lost the championship to Carmen Basilio in September.

Now Fullmer hopes to get another shot. While waiting to see if Robinson wants to go through with the Basilio rematch, he is taking other work.

Since the Robinson disaster at Chicago, the West Jordan, Utah mauler has beaten Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Chico Vejar.

Fullmer's record is 42-3-1, Rivers' 37-5-2.

Damage May Keep School Closed, 3 Boys Dislike Study

ROCHESTER (AP)—Three pupils caused so much damage to their grade school over the weekend that the principal says he doubts the school can open tomorrow.

Fred Parker, principal of Nathaniel Rochester School No. 2, called damage to all 24 classrooms and four offices "incredible."

He said the boys, who are 7, 8, and 11 years old, told him: "We didn't want to go to school and we thought that if we did a really good job we'd never have to go to school again."

An estimate of the damage was not immediately available.

Police said the boys broke windows, splashed paint on the walls, spilled ink on the desks and floors, broke dishes in the homemaking room, threw eggs at the ceilin, knocked over a motion picture projector and scattered books, records and papers in all the rooms.

"The worst I've seen in a school," said one detective.

Police said the boys made two raids, one Saturday and another yesterday. A school guard caught one of the boys yesterday and after police questioned him they picked up the other two. None was identified.

Reuter Probers Resume Tuesday

After a weekend recess and no session today because of Veterans Day, the State Investigations Committee will resume its session Tuesday.

Over the weekend the members of Commissioner Arthur L. Reuter's staff were "evaluating" the information which the commission collected last week. The investigation, started as the result of a petition asking for a state probe into the local police department irregularities after it was alleged a grand jury investigation had not gone deeply enough into the matter, is being conducted to determine whether or not a special investigation should be instituted at the behest of Governor Harriman.

Starting out as an investigation into the charge of irregularities of police avtivities in the city, the probe had apparently assumed county-wide proportions and a number of county officials have been called before the investigating unit which is conducting hearings at the state armory.

Rosendale Parish Sunday School Set Parents Night

The committee of Christian education of Rosendale Reformed Church is sponsoring a church school parent's night Thursday at the church hall.

Included in the program is a film entitled, "The Split-Level Family." This is a new movie filmed under the direction of the National Council of Churches for use as part of the Christian Education Week program theme, "Learn to Give—Give to Learn." It sets forth dramatically the conflict between Christian ideals and secular standards in every-day family living.

New Curriculum

Following the movie, church school parents will be given the opportunity to view the new Presbyterian "Lord of Christian Faith and Life" curriculum used in the various departments, and also chat informally with the church school teachers and staff members. Refreshments will be furnished by the church school staff, assisted by members of the Ladies Aid.

While this is primarily a church school program for parents, all interested members of the congregation have been invited to participate. Any members of the community who may be interested in viewing the material and methods used by the Christian education department of Rosendale Reformed Church are also extended an invitation to attend.

The Christian education department includes the following staff members: Harrison C. Cornish, director of Religious education; Church School superintendent Mrs. George Mollenhauer; teachers are Mrs. Robert Demarest, Mrs. Richard Weir, Mrs. Robert Lasher, nursery department; Mrs. Marion Morris, Mrs. Bert Atkins, kindergarten; Mrs. Cuyler Thayer, Mrs. James Schulz, primary; Mrs. Viekko Jalanti, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson and Mrs. Gene VanWinkle, junior; James L. Conley, junior high and Ferdinand Fiedler, senior high.

Saugerties Drive For Camp Fire Council Set Today

The annual Camp Fire Girls fund raising campaign of Saugerties Council conducted by the Saugerties Jayncees began todav throughout the township.

The drive will be initiated with posters and displays throughout the township and a door to door canvass conducted by the Jayncees within the next two weeks.

The Saugerties Council is currently conducting a "Meet the People" project in which the Camp Fire Girls are participating. The project involves a photography contest motivated to acquaint foreign countries with the American way of life and customs.

The winners of the contest will have their photos displayed in 15 foreign countries.

The fund raising campaign will be conducted through November 23.

Reformed Church School Visits Local Synagogue

Students of the Rosendale Reformed Church school visited the Synagogue of Agudas Achim Sunday afternoon.

All classes were represented from the primary through the senior high departments. Rabbi Harold Z. Rappaport spoke to the young people concerning the meaning of Hebrew symbols and their place in synagogue worship. He also explained the Jewish Sabbath and preparatory worship in the home. Rabbi Rappaport then answered questions of the staff and pupils, giving all a better understanding of Jewish worship.

To Visit New York

Members of the beginners and advanced confirmation classes of the church will travel to New York City Saturday where they will visit The Cloisters, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the Reformed Church Board rooms on Fifth Avenue, and other points of interest.

Members of the confirmation classes who will be making the trip are David Mollenhauer, Eric Constant, Mary Mastro, Freddie May, Alphia Dunn, Jean Dichtelmiller, Judy Russell, Margaret Geiselmann and Douglas Constant. They will be accompanied by Rev. Cuyler T. E. Thayer, pastor of the Rosendale Reformed Church and will leave at 8 a. m.

150 Attend Dance Of Wicks Firemen

Over 150 attended the annual dinner and dance of A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company Saturday night at the SRS Home, Cottekill.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang and Kingston Fire Chief James M. Brett spoke briefly praising the progress of the company since its organization in 1941.

Other city officials present were Fire Commissioners Harold Van Bramer and James Locke, and former chief Joseph L. Murphy.

The program began with the invocation by the Rev. William McVey, chaplain of the company and pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Morton Finch served as toastmaster and introduced the officers of the company and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Music was provided by Speed Scherer and his orchestra.

US Equestrians Appear Ready To Make Big Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Equestrian Team finally looks like the one to beat today after lagging through the first week of the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden.

The U. S. team moved into the lead for the team and individual championships yesterday as Hugh Wiley of Towson, Md., turned in near-perfect performances.

Wiley, the leading rider in the show with 50 points, starred in two events that thrust the home forces to the lead. In the afternoon International Jumping Challenge Trophy Class Competition, he teamed with Bill Steinkraus and Frank Chapot to win the three-event test with only eight faults.

In the evening $1,000 International Jumping Stake, he beat 11 opponents in a jump-off in which time was the deciding factor. He took his Palomino Nautical over the seven-obstacle course in 25.5 seconds.

The U. S. team now has 91 points, to 84 for runner-up Britain. Steinkraus and Britain's Ted Williams trail for individual honors with 34 points apiece.

In the five-gaited saddle horse amateur championship, Miss Joan Robinson Hill's Belinda took top honors.

President Given Routine Check on State of Health

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower got a doctors' report today on the state of his health a year after election to a second term.

The President—who has called it a year of constant dealing with crises — entered Walter Reed Hospital yesterday afternoon for his first head to toe physical examination in a bit more than 12 months.

The White House called the examination routine, an annual precaution. Eisenhower arranged to check out of his third floor hospital suite before nightfall. The substance of the report he receives from his physicians probably will be made public.

Longest Period

This is the first time since the President's heart attack in September 1955 that anywhere near as much as a year has elapsed between his full scale medical checkups. He had three last year, and his last complete examination was on Oct. 27-28, 1956. The doctors reported then he gave "every appearance of being in excellent health."

Since then he has gone to the hospital twice for brief examinations of the heart and lungs, but did not stay overnight.

This latest examination came as Eisenhower faces a new speed-up in a working pace already at a more taxing clip than at any time since his heart attack.

The President told a news conference two weeks ago there had not been a day in the preceding 15 months that he had not been faced with one crisis or another, international or domestic. He said he found that wearing at times but endurable because of his faith in America.

Task More Pressing

Lately, particularly since the Russian advances in the missile and satellite fields, Eisenhower has been working longer than usual hours at his desk—and getting out to the golf course less frequently even though the weather has been generally good. The length of the lists of his daily engagements is reminiscent of the early days of his first term.

And the pace is likely to get faster. Eisenhower is now organizing a drive to overtake and surpass Russia in development of space age weapons.

He goes to Oklahoma City Wednesday night for the second in a series of "chins up" speeches he has planned in an effort to bolster the nation's confidence.

The President will be back in Washington for Mrs. Eisenhower's 61st birthday Thursday. Then he may go to Augusta, Ga., for a long weekend of golf and rest.

17 Die in Bus Mishaps

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Eleven persons were killed yesterday and 19 others injured when a bus missed a sharp turn and plunged over a precipice near Bolu, 140 miles southeast of Istanbul.

Ten of the injured were in a serious condition.

ATHENS (AP) — Six people were killed and 12 injured when a bus plunged into the sea from a cliff in the island of Euboea yesterday.

The so-called Mormon crickets are not true crickets, but belong to the katydid family.

Seven Drown as Car Plunges Into Bayou

LAFAYETTE, Ala., (AP)—A car crashed through a bridge railing and plunged into Bayou St. Claire near here yesterday, drowning seven persons.

Sheriff Mayo Harson said the auto crashed through the wooden railing near the center of the bayou and dropped into 12 feet of water.

Three bodies were in the car when it was pulled out by a tractor. The others were recovered with grappling hooks.

Harson said the victims were Negroes.

Weather Outlook For Entire Week

ALBANY (AP) — The extended weather forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today, to 7 p. m. Saturday:

Eastern New York — Fair and cold tonight, warmer Tuesday and little change during the remainder of the week. Temperatures will average about normal for the season. Some showers are likely late Wednesday or Thursday, and again about Saturday, and will total ¼ to ½ inch.

Western New York — Changeable weather is indicated with temperatures averaging near normal. Generally fair and moderating on Tuesday and Wednesday, followed by showers, snow flurries and turning colder Thursday. Moderating with another precipitation period is likely during the weekend. Less than ½ inch of melted precipitation is expected.

Temperature Normals—Normal temperatures over Upstate New York now range from early morning lows in the upper 20s to middle 30s, to afternoon highs in the middle to upper 40s.

Woman Dies at 107

SARANAC LAKE (AP) — A 107-year-old woman, Mrs. Lucy R. Smith, died today.

Mrs. Smith was born in Tannersville and lived most of her life in the Ilion area. She came here last year to live with relatives.

Her husband, George, died 46 years ago.

Won't Ask Any More Records Than Last Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service says it will handle expense account items on the great bulk of 1957 income tax returns just as it has handled those in past years.

It didn't say that those who have neglected to list such items in the past can continue to ignore them safely. The law has required since 1921 that they be listed. But the service and the Treasury Department said in a joint statement:

"No more detailed records will be required for 1957 than have been needed in the past. In fact, the instructions on expense accounts for 1957 are identical with those issued in 1954, 1955 and 1956."

The law requires anyone on expense account to list his reimbursement as income and to itemize the expenses for which he was paid, but for 36 years the fellow with a small expense account has paid little attention to the requirement. And the revenue service itself usually hasn't bothered to check.

But the word went out last week that closer scrutiny would be given to expense accounts this year, especially those which count up to sizable figures. That raised fears that thousands of little fellows might be called on for data they hadn't kept in detailed form during the year.

The joint weekend statement sought to play down that idea, saying:

"In the examination of individual tax returns for 1957 the revenue service will concentrate on major abuses in the expense account area and no requirement of unreasonably detailed records is intended."

Hopes Canal Co., Egypt to Agree Soon on Payment

CAIRO (AP)—World Bank President Eugene Black said today he is hopeful Egypt and the old Suez Canal Co. will soon agree on compensation for stockholders of the company.

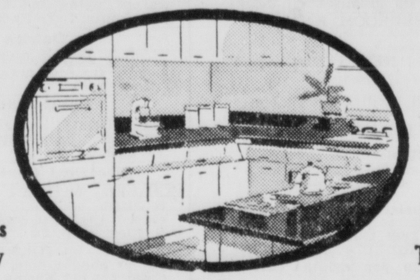

Black left by plane for Paris and London after two days of talks with Egyptian officials. He said he had "found out both sides have a sincere wish to reach agreement."

He denied that the bank is preparing a compensation plan, saying he is only a mediator trying to get negotiations started and to help them along once they start.

Black also denied reports that he told Nasser the bank would consider helping finance the Aswan high dam if Egypt settled with the canal company.

The talks, Black told the paper Al Ahram, did not deal in any way with loans to Egypt for either the dam or canal development.
